

Vandenbush and Two Companions Appear in Court

Judge While Grand Jury Indicts Them In Holdup

ACCUSE THEIR GUILT

Green Bay Desperado Captured After New York Robbery

White Plains, N. Y.—The Westchester county grand jury today indicted Merle Vandenbush, 29, called "public rat No. 1," and his two companions in the $17,026 holdup of a bank at Katonah, N. Y., for robbery in the first degree. The special grand jury acted speedily, hearing only two witnesses and returning the indictment 29 minutes after beginning its session. As the grand jury was acting, the three prisoners, handcuffed together and surrounded by guards, were ushered from the Westchester county jail at East View to the court of county Judge Gerald Nolan.

The arraignment was completed with such dispatch none of the prisoners removed his overcoat. They were informed of the indictment.

Father of Bandit Glad No Killing Preceded Capture

Green Bay.—"All I've got to say is, I'm glad he was caught before there was any killing," said Arthur Vandenbush, father of the captured Merle Vandenbush, when he learned of the event today.

The father is employed as a laborer at a fish house here. Merle's mother has been dead for some time, and his father has remarried. Asked if his son had caused him a great deal of trouble, the father responded, "I'll say he has," and declined to comment further.

ent, which was not read, and all entered please of innocent. en they asked that counsel be assigned to defend them, stating they had no funds. Judge Nolan, told them this request would be granted if they were taken back to jail.

Trial Date Not Set

At the Westchester county court, the belief was expressed Vandenbush entered his plea of innocence in an effort to delay extradition to New Jersey to face an indictment charging the kidnaping of a Trooper William A. Turnbull, 31, Nov. 11.

Charles E. Murphy and Einar Olson, company employees, told authorities the holdup men fled in a black sedan, carrying Illinois license plates, after snatching the money bag from Murphy.

The victims said there were either three or four men in the raiding party. All of the robbers had masked their faces with blue handkerchiefs.

Murphy had just stepped upon a platform leading to the Celon company office, police said, when one of the robbers shoved a gun in his back and took the pay roll bag. He immediately ran to an automobile.

Another robber, the victims said, ordered Olson to stand behind a nearby warehouse until the robbers had driven away. Olson refused and he was kicked severely before the robber ran to join his companions in the car.

Arrested After Holdup

Three country policemen, who secured the driver of the coupe, carried a mile suspicious, ignominiously curtailed for the squint-eyed, sick-lipped Vandenbush, a career criminal which began 19 years ago. They did not know the importance of their catch until later. They are looking only for bandits who

Oconto Cooperative Gets REA Allotment

Madison.—John A. Becker, rural electrification director, announced today that the Oconto county cooperative has been allocated $290,000 of federal REA funds to construct lines which will serve 20 farmers.

He also announced the Richland county Electric Cooperative association has received an additional allotment of $150,000 for extensions to its present 231-mile project, now nearing completion.

A total of $3,613,600, he said, has been allotted to Wisconsin REA projects.

Loomis Voices Plea For Centralization Of Legal Agencies

Madison.—Orlando S. Loomis urged centralization of the legal agencies of the state in an address today at a conference of Wisconsin district attorneys.

"I want to keep the attorney general's office, as the constitution says it should be kept, the chief law office of the state, and just an office to render opinions to district attorneys," he said.

Loomis criticized proponents of legislation creating separate legal staffs for the industrial and conservation commissions.

Urges End of Badger Farm Credit Group

Sturgeon Bay Republican Asks Discontinuance as Economy Measure

FIGHT IS FORECAST

Proposal Offered as Amendment to Finance Committee Measure

Madison.—(P)—Assemblyman Frank Graess, (R), Sturgeon Bay, asked the house today in the interest of economy to discontinue the Wisconsin Farm Credit administration at the end of the present fiscal year, July 1.

Graess offered an amendment to the finance committee bill, already passed by the senate, which appropriates $150,000 to the FCA to continue its operation until 1939. His proposal would pay the agency's expenses of $30,000 for the remainder of this year only.

On the Progressive side of the house, leaders served notice of a fight to defeat the amendment, asserting that the FCA has helped scale down $45,000,000 of farm debt and is still needed because of last year's drought.

Would 'Call Halt'

Graess declared the time has come to "call a halt" on state expenditures. He said the legislature at its present rate will have appropriated more than $2,000,000 before it gets to the governor's biennial budget bill and that revenues to finance that bill completely were not in sight.

The assembly approved and sent to Governor LaFollette the bill requiring all industrial and mercantile establishments to give their employees at least one day off each week.

It also approved and sent to the senate the Frankowski bill fixing March 1 as the permanent deadline for obtaining automobile license plates and the Blomquist bill forbidding the removal of railroad shops and terminals without permission of the public service commission.

The house advanced to third reading the Douglas bill authorizing county boards to waive interest and penalties on delinquent real estate taxes for the year 1931 to 1934, inclusive, provided they are paid by next October.

Trooper Guilty; 6 Facing Trial

Gunderman Found Guilty Of Second Degree Murder in Pennsylvania

Somerset, Pa.—(P)—Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti said today he would follow State Trooper Stacy Gunderman's conviction for second degree murder by demanding the death penalty for six other defendants on charges of killing Frank C. Monaghan during a third degree.

Chief Defense Attorney John Duggan, Jr., indicated he would not seek a new trial for the 29-year-old state policeman.

A jury convicted Gunderman last night of second degree murder for beating to death 64-year-old Frank C. Monaghan. The conviction carries a penalty of 10 to 20 years in prison.

The husky, six-foot trooper who testified he struck Monaghan in self-defense, wept as he started to jail to await sentencing by Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey, who presided at the trial on a change of venue.

The six others are District Attorney James A. Reilly, State Trooper Anthony Santu, assistant District Attorney Harry W. Byrne, Charles Malik, night police chief at Uniontown; County Detective Wilbert Miner, and former Detective Jack Hann.

Five others, including Coroner S. A. Baltz, two doctors and two undertakers were indicted as accessories.

6 Children Die When Kentucky Home Burns

Lebanon, Ky.—(P)—Six children burned to death today when their two-room log home on Old Lick creek, caught fire from a stove.

The victims ranged between four months and 14 years in age. Their father, Turner Rakes, tenant farmer, his wife and a 16-year-old daughter, Louise, were dragged from the house. Coroner Robert Borders said he was informed the house was enveloped in flames when one of the children threw coal oil in the stove.

Robbery Suspect Freed But Is Parole Violator

Milwaukee.—(P)—Freed as a suspect in the robbery of John Behrendt, former Ozaukee county sheriff, Frank Tomassello, 20, was returned today to the Boys Industrial school at Waukesha as a parole violator.

Tomassello was sentenced to the industrial school two years ago in connection with theft of 35 automobiles, and was paroled a year ago.

Hannan Asks Indeterminate Sentence Law in Wisconsin To Improve Penal System

Madison.—(P)—Calling for emancipation from the idea that the main objective of prisons is to punish, Colonel John J. Hannan, chairman of the state board of control, urged the first Wisconsin conference on crime control today to advocate an indeterminate sentence law.

Such a law, he said, would limit the courts to a determination of the guilt or innocence of a defendant and leave the question of length of imprisonment or treatment to another authority.

Colonel Hannan, president of the Association of States Signatory to the Prison Compact, and proponent of humane administration of Wisconsin penal institutions, sounded the keynote of the third and final day's discussion of the crime conference. Approximately 200 persons attended the daily sessions.

Adoption of the indeterminate sentence law, Colonel Hannan said, would improve the entire penal administration of Wisconsin because it would reduce the number sent to purely prison environments and make possible a more intelligent use of the parole system.

More On Probation

"It would increase the number who would be subject to treatment on probation," he explained. "It would increase the number sent for treatment into institutions for the mentally diseased and the mentally deficient."

"It would reduce the number of cases to be considered by the pardon board, for the reason that it would wholly eliminate any actions by such a board for the correction of inequalities of sentence."

"It would, in my judgment, result in a much higher percentage of young men who were sent behind the walls to readjust, for the reason that between the ages of 18 and 25—the unstable period—we receive too many with terms so short that

Peggy Garcia Quizzed On Her Marital Status

New York.—(P)—With her silver-blond tresses gleaming under harsh lights, Peggy Garcia, former flapper girl, stared wide-eyed at a hall full of detectives at police headquarters lineup today and spoke about her past and present marital status.

The baby-faced Peggy was arrested on bigamy charges along with her husband, Michael La Rocca, tombstone salesman of Astoria, N. Y. She answered questions put to her by acting Captain Richard Pennelly.

Peggy and La Rocca were indicted on charges of bigamy shortly after noon by a New York county grand jury.

The case against La Rocca hinged on a statement by a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Kathleen Murray La Rocca, who said she was La Rocca's first and "real" wife and the mother of three children by him.

Propose Regulation of Auto Repair Garages

Madison.—(P)—The assembly transportation committee introduced a bill today to license and regulate all automobile repair garages whether independently owned or operated in connection with sales organizations.

The bill authorizes the banking commission, which regulates motor vehicle dealers, to create a three-man board of examiners for garage men and their helpers. The board would consist of one independent garage owner, one automobile dealer and a third person to be selected by them.

The garage men would have to pay a $15 annual license fee. Those now engaged in the business would be licensed automatically but others would be subject to an examination.

Drunk Asks for Thirty Day Sentence, Gets It

Green Bay.—(P)—"This man wants 30 days, declared Patrolman Vincent Czechanski when he brought Henry Petroski of no fixed address into police court this morning on a drunkenness charge.

"Do you want 30 days?" demanded Police Justice John Sullivan.

"Sure; no place to eat, no place to sleep; why not?" replied the defendant.

"Thirty days—in the workhouse," pronounced the court.

Skunks Continue to Defy Efforts to Evict Them From Church Near Juneau

Juneau, Wis.—(P)—A family of skunks remained strongly entrenched in St. Matthew's Lutheran church, near here today. Meanwhile, the air in the church grew stronger every minute.

Sunday's services have been cancelled, but William Field, deputy conservation warden summoned to direct an eviction, said he expected to have the situation in hand in time for resumption of services the following week.

FOR NEW SYSTEM

Colonel John J. Hannan, chairman of the state board of control, today urged an indeterminate sentence law in Wisconsin. He would limit the courts to determining the guilt or innocence of a defendant and leave the question of length of imprisonment to another authority.

Russia, Portugal Quit Patrol Pact In Spanish Zones

Four Powers Remain to Enforce Naval Blockade After March 6

London.—(P)—Russia and Portugal—apparently by agreement—withdraw today from the projected six-power naval patrol of warning Spain.

Only four powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—were left to begin the sea watch intended to prevent men and munitions from entering either side of the Spanish civil war. The start of the blockade has been set for midnight March 6.

The Lisbon government, it was learned, reserved the right to re-enter the agreement if Russia does.

The Russians, who had objected strenuously to a neutrality committee ruling which assigned their warships to the rough waters of the bay of Biscay, decided they no longer desired to participate with Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Portugal.

Ivan Maisky, the soviet ambassador, indicated to the subcommittee of the neutrality group that Russia had achieved her main aim—recognition of her right to join the patrol, first opposed by fascist powers.

Informed sources said the soviet withdrawal will not interfere with the carrying out of the patrol scheme, which is designed to keep foreign men and arms out of Spain.

Senate Clears Path For Trade Agreements

Washington.—(P)—Extension of the president's power to make reciprocal trade agreements cleared the way today for seeking pacts with Great Britain, Australia and other nations.

Senate approval, 58 to 24, sent a three-year extension of the trade agreements law to the White House last night for signature. The original grant of power would have ended in June.

Among the 15 nations which signed trade agreements with the United States during the last three years are Canada, Cuba, Brazil, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Switzerland and Sweden.

State department officials hope to negotiate possibly a dozen more agreements this year.

Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, talked with President Roosevelt in January about trade relations.

Observers saw hopes for a trade understanding between the United States and Australia in the assignment of an Australian diplomatic representative to Washington.

Senate Passes Summers Bill By 76-4 Ballot

Favors Voluntary Equal Pay Retirement of Supreme Court Justices

SEE ROOSEVELT O. K.

Some Leaders Predict Retirement of One or Two Justices

Washington.—(P)—The senate today passed and sent to the White House the Summers bill to permit supreme court members to retire voluntarily on full pay at 70 years of age. The vote was 76 to 4.

The measure was swiftly approved after brief debate during which some senators said they would not respect court members who might retire under present circumstances.

This view was expressed by senators Johnson (R-Calif.), and Burke (D-Neb.), both opponents of the President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan.

Some administration leaders—including Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor chief—have expressed the view that passage of the Summers bill might lead to the retirement of one or two justices now on the court.

The senate's action came only a short while after President Roosevelt announced at his press conference that he would make a nationwide radio address at 9:30 p. m. C. S. T. March 9. It is expected by White House officials to include a discussion of his court proposals.

Beat Amendment

Just before the senate vote, the big Democratic majority in that chamber shouted down an amendment by Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) which would have postponed operation of the bill four years, or until after President Roosevelt's term expires.

Bridges pointed out the Summers bill had been introduced two years ago but failed to enactment.

"There is no immediate hurry," he said. "Why this sudden change of front? Why this sudden hurry at this time?"

He told the senate his amendment would take the supreme court "out of politics and out of the situation in which it is involved today."

The four senators voting against the bill were: Bridges; Bulow (D-S. D.); Johnson; and Moore (D-N.J.).

During the debate Johnson shouted that "a supreme court judge who retired at this particular time would not be the sort of an individual for whom I would have the greatest respect."

Opposed to "Boat"

The Californian said he would expect a supreme court justice to retire "only when no bail is being held out to him, and when there is no suggestion of his being driven from the bench by other legislation."

Robinson asked Johnson when he would approve the retirement of supreme court justices, adding: "Do you want them to wait until another president can name their successors?"

"It is beyond my limited power of understanding," Robinson asserted, "to grasp why supreme court judges should not have the same privileges as members of the lower courts."

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), another opponent of the president's plan, joined Johnson.

"At any time after the bill now pending for additions to the supreme court is withdrawn by its introducer or defeated by congress, I think a member of the supreme court could resign, but not sooner, and retain my respect," Burke said.

Farnsworth Given Prison Sentence

Gets 4 to 12 Years for Conspiracy to Sell Secrets to Japan

Washington.—(P)—John S. Farnsworth, former naval lieutenant commander, was sentenced on a charge of conspiring to sell naval secrets to the Japanese.

Sentence was passed by Justice James M. Proctor in federal district court.

Dispute Closes 2 Large Plants; 2,700 Affected

Taverns and Liquor Stores are Closed

Janesville.—(P)—All taverns and liquor stores in Janesville were ordered closed at noon today by City Manager Henry Traxler and Police Chief William Ford as a result of noisy disturbances in some of the taverns and on the streets following the closing of the General Motors plants this morning.

Sheriff James Croake, cooperating with city officials in an effort to maintain order in an emergency, issued a call for all rural taverns within five miles of the city to close at once.

Both closing orders were made effective "until further notice."

Recruit Pickets After Arrest of 341 'Sit-Downers'

Prisoners Fingerprinted at Los Angeles After Removal From Plant

Los Angeles.—(P)—Union organizers recruited pickets today so "the strike will go on" as 341 sit-down strikers were fingerprinted in jail here after being led by armed police from the Douglas Aircraft plant in Santa Monica.

The pickets will be "at all the gates" declared James Carter, the strikers' attorney.

Singing and shouting, the sit-down group gave up its three-day possession of the plant yesterday, insisting they did so only because they had been assured their cases would be heard quickly.

Previously some had declared they were "ready to die" rather than give up.

"The strike will go on until we force Douglas to abide by the law in recognizing our union (United Automobile Workers of America) and granting our just demands" for union recognition, wage and hour changes," Carter said.

Ready to Negotiate

Asserting he had not been notified of any demands, Donald W. Douglas, president of the world's largest aircraft plant, announced willingness to meet with "any legitimate labor group."

William Busick and Andrew Schmolder, organizers for the United Automobile Workers, aircraft division, obtained release late last night on $1,000 bonds and today organized pickets.

The sit-down strikers surrendered after a tense afternoon in which violence at times seemed inevitable. More than 300 peace officers armed with two machine guns, tear gas bombs, clubs and pistols surrounded the plant.

They held warrants charging the strikers with conspiracy to violate California laws against forcible entry and trespassing. The warrants were issued on county grand jury indictments.

Finally the men came filing out in groups of about 30, outwardly in gay spirits. They shouted greetings to a crowd of nearly 3,000 sympathizers, wives and curious, some perched on the roofs of nearby buildings, against the foot switch. He was recognized by Arthur Hilgenberg, DePere, a passer-by, and released.

DePere Salesman Is Robbed, Tied in Car

Green Bay.—(P)—Sheriff's officers today were searching for a tall holdup man who last night robbed Ray Turritt, DePere, liquor salesman, of approximately $80 in cash and left him tied to the wheel of his automobile on the upper DePere road, between DePere and Green Bay. The bandit escaped in the car of an accomplice which had followed.

Turritt just started to drive away from a tavern when he felt a gun jabbed into his ribs by a man who had been hidden in the rear seat.

He was ordered to drive toward DePere, and out on the highway he was relieved of his collections and his wrists were tied across each other to the wheel with what appeared to be a length of worn sashcord.

Upon being left alone, Turritt managed to get enough slack in the cord to blow his horn, and was able to flash his lights with the foot switch. He was recognized by Arthur Hilgenberg, DePere, a passer-by, and released.

Fisher Body and Chevrolet Shut Down at Janesville

EMPLOYEES IN RIFT

National Union Officer Tells Men to Return to Work

Janesville.—(P)—A strike precipitated when a union worker was told to stay away from his job until he could "act like a man" threw 2,700 employees of the Fisher Body company and the Chevrolet Motor company plants into idleness today.

A few hours later, a national officer of the union notified local leaders to get the men back on the job, "today if possible," Wesley Van Horn, president of the Janesville local of the United Automobile Workers of America, said.

"We shall abide by instructions from our national officers," Van Horn said.

Janesville.—(P)—A labor dispute developing over friction between union and non-union employees closed the Fisher Body factory and the Chevrolet automobile assembly plant here today. Approximately 2,700 men were thrown out of work.

The refusal of the 60 men on the seat cushion line to go to work today until one of their number, William Bartel, was reinstated in his job made it impossible to continue body production in the Fisher plant.

The factory whistle which served notice of the shutdown sounded at 8:30 a. m. Production ceased at the Chevrolet plant half an hour later. The latter was dependent upon the Fisher works for its automobile body supply.

Ill-feeling between members of the United Automobile Workers of America and non-union men employed at the Fisher plant broke into the open yesterday when non-union men came to work wearing buttons of the General Motors Alliance. Union men booed.

B. F. Hurley, plant manager, said Bartel told his foreman at the noon hour that he was then on his own time and did not have to abide by instructions not to boo the non-union men. The foreman, Hurley said, told him to see Hurley.

Cause of Dispute

"At the end of the shift," Hurley said, "I talked with Bartel, gave him some advice and told him to talk the matter over with his wife. He had spoken profanely to the foreman as well as refused to comply with the foreman's instructions. Then I told Bartel to come back to work when he thought he could act like a man."

Hurley said he discussed Bartel's case with Wesley Van Horn, union president, told him the case could be settled in conference and asked him to instruct union men to continue working pending the negotiations.

"They told Bartel not to return to work until he could act like a man," Van Horn said. "This amounted to firing him. A union committee demanded his return to work and was told by plant officials the whistle would be blown signifying a shutdown if our demands were persisted in. We told them go ahead. They blew the whistle at 8:30 a. m."

Hurley said the 60 men on the seat cushion line refused to work this morning, stopping production in other departments. This necessitated a shutdown. He said.

FORCED FROM PLANT

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—An early morning gas attack by deputies forced 61 strikers out of the Pansteel Metallurgical plant today.

The strikers, on a sit-down in two of the factory buildings since Feb. 17, fled from the plant after withstanding the tear and "knockout" gas for an hour.

Some of them were bleeding from effects of the gas, shot into the plant through windows.

Sheriff Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake county mobilized about 50 deputies for the attack soon after President Robert J. Aitchison of the corporation announced rejection of Governor Henry Horner's proposals for settling the strike.

Hunger Strike Is Concluded After Clashes in Mine

Pecs, Hungary.—(P)—A "suicide" strike of 230 miners collapsed today and the men, half-dazed from hunger and many bleeding from wounds suffered in an underground fight, staggered out of the shaft.

Some of the grimy-faced workers, too weak to walk, were carried on the shoulders of their comrades.

FHA Information Office Is Opened Here Under WPA

Clerks Will Give Advice Concerning Loans For Homes

Four persons are employed at the Federal Housing Administration information office which was opened today under a WPA project in the Odd Fellows building, 201 E. College avenue. A senior clerk is in charge of the office under the direction of Robert Schwegler, Green Bay, WPA district supervisor.

The office and equipment is being furnished by the city while labor costs are being cared for by the WPA. The workers are taken from the relief list.

A representative of the Federal Housing Administration who appeared before the common council recently stated that although the government has provided for the office for only the next few months, he indicated that new regulations will be made shortly to continue the office here.

Information concerning steps necessary for property owners to secure loans for the repair and remodeling of homes or the erection of new homes will be given out at the office. More clerks can be added to the office staff provided there is a demand the FHA representative informed the council.

State Business Level Improves

Reported 19 Pct. Higher Than First 2 Weeks of February, 1936

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's business level during the two weeks ending Feb. 17 was 19 per cent higher than in the corresponding weeks of 1936, the bureau of business information of the University of Wisconsin extension division announced today.

The bureau based its computation on check payments reported to the federal reserve board by banks in seven cities of the state.

Check payment reports from 13 cities, the bureau said, showed the state's business level in January was 20 per cent higher than in the same month of 1936 and 10 per cent lower than in December, 1936. Eleven cities showed increases in year to year comparisons and two showed declines.

Percentage increases for cities were: Chippewa Falls, 18; Eau Claire, 17; Green Bay, 32; LaCrosse, 14; Manitowish, 18; Merrill, 38; Milwaukee, 20; Oshkosh, 18; Rhinelander, 25; Sheboygan, 25; Superior, 1. Percentage decreases were: Ashland, 13; Hudson, 17.

Wausau's bank clearings (not debits) in January, 1937, were 32 per cent above those of January, 1936, and 5 per cent below those of December, 1936, the bureau said.

Advocates Separation of Sexes in Schools to Prevent Delinquencies

Madison—(P)—Segregation of boys and girls of high school age was advocated Thursday by Dr. William F. Lorenz, director of the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute, as a means of preventing delinquencies which frequently lead to criminal careers.

The widely known psychiatrist, for many years a member of the Wisconsin Medical school faculty, told nearly 200 persons attending the first statewide conference on crime control that good results would ensue from such a drastic change in educational methods.

"It would be unfair, however, to admonish the educator that the prevention of crime is entirely in his hands," Dr. Lorenz said.

"I believe the sexes should be separated at the high school period. This need go no further than separate classroom instructors—supply male teachers for the male group and female teachers for the female group. The nature of contact that can be made between teacher and student under such conditions permits of training that goes far beyond mere education."

Dr. Lorenz said his program, if adopted, would increase educational costs since it would invite into the teaching profession a larger number of young men who would adopt it as a lifetime job.

A scientific study of the entire personality—mental and physical—at an early period of delinquent behavior was advocated by Dr. Lorenz as a means of discovering many dangerous prospects and preventing their free return to society.

"I would also advocate," he said, "that any person who has been sentenced twice and is found guilty of a third crime should have his mental questions. He might best be turned over to a physician rather than continue the ineffective remedies that have proved to be without result."

Wayne L. Morse, administrative director of the attorney general's survey of criminal release procedures at Washington, D. C., and dean of the law school of the University of Oregon, told the conference Thursday evening that many prisoners are released each year either on parole or at expiration of sentence, still viciously warped in their behavior patterns and a constant anti-social menace.

"Provision should be made," he declared, "which will permit the permanent incarceration of such vicious anti-social characters, but so

Mrs. Sullivan Urges Attention For Juveniles

Kaukauna Woman Says They Must Not Be Ignored In Crime Control

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Discussion of crime control or prevention is futile if the world of juveniles is ignored, according to Mrs. Katherine Sullivan, Kaukauna, member of the state board of control, who Wednesday afternoon addressed delegates to the University of Wisconsin first annual crime control conference.

Mrs. Sullivan spoke on the relation of juvenile delinquency to criminal administration at the conference, which has brought together crime experts, administrators and social scientists from throughout the nation.

At present, declared Mrs. Sullivan, "we are only stumbling in the dark with the problems of criminal administration with the right hand never knowing what the left is doing."

Mrs. Sullivan presented a five-point minimal juvenile delinquency administration program for Wisconsin, including a new juvenile court statute, placing juvenile courts on a level with circuit courts, and providing for state support, competent family welfare workers in every county having a juvenile court, with probation workers according to need; closer cooperation of the school system with juvenile courts and social agencies; closer cooperation of industrial schools for juveniles with governmental officers, courts, and social agencies; and the supervision of parolees from the industrial schools by local welfare workers.

The Kaukauna speaker charged society with a mishandling of the juvenile parole problem pointing to a young man in a state institution who has already been paroled 17 times.

Mrs. Sullivan drew upon her own experience in Wisconsin social welfare work to tell the assembled experts that the typical history of a child delinquent includes a broken home, poverty, poor neighborhood environment, unbalanced and unsupervised recreation, haphazard truancy, the bafflement of police officers with the "bad boy" problem, the failure of the court to handle the problem adequately, and, finally, the failure of the school, church, police and court to work together intelligently.

Assembly Group Reviews Large Fund Measures

Holds Hearings on Municipalities League and Rubin Bills

Madison—(P)—The assembly's welfare committee dealt with big figures yesterday in reviewing two bills which would require the state to raise and appropriate close to $40,000,000 a year for relief and social security pensions.

It held hearings on the league of municipalities' bill to levy more than $16,000,000 of taxes to replace an equal amount of local property taxes, and the Rubin bill to increase old age pensions to $60 a month for single persons and $90 a month for married couples. The latter would cost $23,000,000 a year.

The hearings attracted so many interested persons—taxpayers, public officials, labor leaders and pensioners that they had to be moved from the committee room to the big parlor adjoining the assembly chamber.

Spokesman for farmers, telephone companies and chain stores appeared in opposition to the features of the league bill which would increase mill, soft drinks and patent medicines, apply a third gross earnings tax to telephone utilities and substantially increase the levies now paid by chain stores. They described the proposed levies either as discriminatory or excessive.

Other Sections Wait

No arguments were offered on other sections taxing incomes, inheritance, gifts and stock dividends, and the committee decided, because of the magnitude of the bill, to post it for another hearing in two weeks.

Municipal officials told the legislators that the 1937 relief cost will be $27,000,000 of which they expect the state to bear half and that additional funds should be voted for pensions to take the cost off general property. They said the localities spent $4,000,000 for general relief in 1927 but last year appropriated $25,000,000 and went into debt another $20,000,000 for this purpose.

Assemblyman Ben Rubin, (P), Milwaukee, appealed for support of his bill to revise the old age pension standards and informed the committee he is drawing a tax to supply the $23,000,000 it will require annually.

The present maximum for old age pensions is $30 a month, but the average payment over the state is $18.72. Rubin said that some counties pay pensions as low as $5 a month and that his bill is intended to require an amount adequate for "decent living."

His bill also puts the entire cost on the state government, supplemented by such funds as the federal government supplies. The counties now pay 20 per cent.

Officials of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor favored the bill and Ray Weaver, mayor of Beaver Dam, endorsed it in principle, asserting that the legislature should fix a definite pension figure and require all counties to meet it.

Attacking the Dodge county pension board, Weaver said that worthy citizens of Beaver Dam were required to wait one year and three months after the state social security law was enacted before they could get pensions.

He said that some of the monthly payments were so small he would be willing to swear that five pensioners died of starvation.

"Every cent that is appropriated," he said, "should go for pensions and none of it to political chiselers."

Fish Shanties Must Be Off Lake Ice March 1

Fishing shanties must be removed from Lake Winnebago by March 1, Conservation warden George Whalen, Appleton, warned today.

Shanties not removed before the deadline will be confiscated by the conservation department. Steel shanties or similar structures which can be salvaged will be used or disposed of by the department while more flimsy wooden shanties will be burned.

Right-of-Way Is Sought For Widening of Road

Negotiations for purchase of right of way for widening of county Trunk E from Freedom north to the county line have been started by F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner.

The road to be improved is about seven miles long and right-of-way now is three rods wide. A 4-rod road is planned.

2 Women Win Commutations to 199 Years; Man Granted Stay

Chicago—(P)—Two convicted murderers were electrocuted in Illinois today and three others, including two women, escaped death in the electric chair through Governor Henry Horner's intervention.

Rugo Swain, 27-year-old college-bred Negro, was pronounced dead at the Cook county (Chicago) jail at 12:12 a. m., eight minutes after the current was applied.

Another Negro, Allen Mitchell, 32, was placed in the electric chair at Menard prison in Chester, Ill., at 12:07 a. m. and doctors pronounced him dead seven minutes later.

Cook county maintained its record of never having executed a woman when Governor Horner commuted the sentence of Mrs. Mildred Bolton to 199 years in prison. Similar clemency was given Mitchell's wife, Minnie.

Joseph Rappaport, 30, was reprieved until Tuesday. On four previous occasions the governor stayed the execution. He said the reprieve was issued because today was a religious holiday for persons of Rappaport's faith.

Swain was convicted last Nov. 27 for the rape murder of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammel, 24, who had been beaten to death in a Chicago hotel room. The Mitchells were convicted of slaying Sam Simpson, East St. Louis Negro, in a plot to obtain his insurance money.

Mrs. Bolton, called "Marble Mildred" because of her seeming indifference to her fate, shot and killed her estranged husband, Joseph W. Bolton, in his insurance office. Rappaport was sentenced for the murder of Max Dent, a government informer who was to testify against him in a narcotics case.

Divide County in Seven Districts For Police Patrol

Police patrol maps, dividing the county into seven districts, are being prepared by Captain Charles Stiedl of the county motor police for use in conjunction with the police radio control system now operating in Outagamie, Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Waupaca counties.

When a patrolman leaves Appleton, he will place a tag on the map to show the district in which he intends to patrol. Should an emergency occur, such as an accident or pursuit of a criminal, the radio operator will call the squad car or motorcycle number which, on the map, is closest to the scene of the action.

One copy of the map will be hung at the sheriff's office, one at the county highway office and one at the radio patrol headquarters at Oshkosh.

3 Progressives See LaFollette In National Race

Believe Badger Governor May be Candidate for President in 1940

BY DOUGLAS MACKENZIE

Washington—(P)—Three Wisconsin Progressives expressed today the opinion that Governor Philip LaFollette of that state is a possible candidate for president in 1940.

These expressions—from Representatives Gardner Withrow, LaCrosse, Thomas R. Amie, Elkhorn, and Gerald Boileau, Wausau—followed the proposal by Representative Dewey Johnson, Minneapolis Farmer-Laborite, of a constitutional amendment to substitute popular vote for the electoral college in naming a president.

It was the first effort at the present session to make third party action more effective. Offsetting it, Johnson said, "this amendment... will make it easier for any new national party to get on the ballot and will tend to break down the control of party machines of the various states of the union."

It is now impossible for a third party to get on the ballot of 19 states. Amie said third party organizations, recalling the history of constitutional amendments, are at work now in many states endeavoring to solidify sentiment for removing constitutional prohibitions against a third wing movement. He would not say, however, in which states these organizations were functioning.

See Realignment

Amie and others also voiced belief a political realignment might occur by 1940 which would result in only two major parties in the field, but with present third party champions at the helm of one embracing liberals from the ranks of the Republican and Democratic parties.

"I believe the president's court message," Amie said, "will have a far-reaching effect that is not appreciated now. I can't see how the liberal-feudalists can go on as they are now."

He explained that he referred to the "northern and southern blocs" within the Democratic party.

Without saying he thinks there is widespread desire for a new party, "I think there is a ground-swell of liberalism that needs to be and is being released," he added.

Third party champions, however, still look to the middle west for support. Conferences have been held in Chicago in the past to discuss the wisdom of a national movement, and another will be held there this year under the auspices of the Illinois Labor party and liberals and progressives in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Amie said the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor "will assume responsibility for building up the party in the middle western states, aided by the Farmer-Labor Association of Minnesota, Farmer-Laborites of North Dakota, and the Wisconsin Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation."

The California "EPIC" movement led by Upton Sinclair, said Amie, "is shot, but ripe for heading up."

Pope Refuses to Permit Change in His Program

County Safety Rally Scheduled for March 22 at Clubhouse at Kimberly

Kimberly—Chief of Police John Bernady and Justice of Peace Gus Hanges announced Thursday that plans are being made to hold the next street and highway safety rally at the clubhouse on March 22. A speaker will be scheduled for the event in addition to a motion picture and several slides which will also be shown.

These rallies are held at regular intervals in the county, and a large number of high school students and adults are expected to attend. Among the safety slides to be shown are traffic jams, safe driving, and crossing streets safely. Carbon monoxide and its dangers will be stressed. Frank Appleton is chairman of the safety highway committee.

With two Henry Kilsdonk opposing each other for the office of village trustee in the coming spring election, Kimberly voters have a problem they never before have met. The two names are spelled alike and the only identification there will be on the ballot is their second initial. Henry J. Kilsdonk is the incumbent trustee and chairman of the relief committee, while Henry M. Kilsdonk is seeking the office.

Both Kilsdonks have been candidates for the trustee office before, but never in the same year. Henry J. started in politics in 1930 when he ran for assessor and was defeated. A few years later he was elected trustee and has held that office since Henry M. Kilsdonk ran for trustee last year when nine candidates were in the field and the close count induced him to try again this year.

Other candidates are trustee, Joe Kuborn and William Behring incumbents, John Busch, Jr., Len Goffard and Henry Williams, who is also seeking the office of county supervisor. Lloyd Lang, village president and county supervisor, is out for a second term. Other incumbents are: Paul Locks Schmidt, clerk; Harry Van Himbergen, treasurer; John Bernady, constable; Martin Vandey, assessor; and Gustave Hanges, justice of peace.

Real estate owners will have until July 1 to pay taxes on their property without penalty for delinquency. Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, announced today. The extension was made possible through a bill signed yesterday by Governor LaFollette.

The city treasurer will accept affidavits, which must be signed and notarized, until Saturday March 6. The affidavits may be secured at the treasurer's office which also is prepared to notarize them. Persons signing affidavits must swear that they are unable to pay their real estate taxes or borrow money to care for them.

All personal property must be paid before an affidavit is signed and applicants are asked to bring their tax bills with them. The affidavits will be made out in duplicate and one will be filed at the county house.

The law states that if such deferred tax payment has not been made on or before July 1, it shall be enforced by tax sale and shall be subject to the same interest, penalties and charges as other delinquent taxes.

War Treaties are Responsible for European Unrest

Most Neighboring Countries are Enemies. Students are Told

The treaties which followed the close of the World War are responsible for European unrest today, and any European war which arises before the adjustment of these treaties will be a result of them, stated Dr. Paul L. Dengler, director and founder of the Austrian-American Institute of Education, at a Lawrence college convocation in Memorial chapel this morning.

"To determine who are enemies in Europe today, simply look at a map," Dr. Dengler said. "Most of the neighbors are enemies, and most of the friends are removed from each other by one or more sovereign states." This situation is to be explained by the cutting up of former nations into many smaller ones, many of which contain racial or nationalistic groups.

variance with their neighbors, or even with millions within their own borders.

War Not Likely

"Germany is not likely to begin a general war within the next few years," Dr. Dengler stated. "She is ringed about by enemies, and she realizes that failure might cause her to be ruined. Increasing armaments have caused fear throughout Europe—fear that any war may draw in world powers, and mean the virtual destruction of the territory occupied. The people realize the risk involved in a war at present, as they did not in 1914."

The treaty of Versailles robbed Germany of her colonies, and other nations of raw materials, he said. Various new nations created by the treaty are faced with enemies along their geographical frontiers, and their freedom has not brought them the happiness which they expected.

Looked to America

Much disillusionment has followed the creation of the League of Nations because America's help in it was expected at the time of Wilson's trip to Europe, Dr. Dengler explained.

"Wilson was looked upon as a god, a supernatural creature," he continued. "When he and the American commission departed they left behind an orphan—the League of Nations."

During the confusion which followed, Austria currency as well as that of other nations was devaluated, turning Vienna into a city of gloom, he said. Once known as the most international city in the world, Vienna, the seat of music and culture, it became the city with the highest suicide rate. State socialism, which wiped out Viennese slums, gave way before a campaign of terrorism and Nazism.

Age-Old Antagonisms

"One of the greatest problems still is the survival of age-old national antagonisms," the speaker declared. "Any suggestion of a United States of Europe is qualified by European nationalities with the statement, 'Good but leave out our enemies.' While speaking at the University of California on this subject, I was approached by a man with a glint in his eye. He identified himself as a Macedonian, and said to me, 'I think your proposals are splendid, provided you leave out the Serbs.'"

Settlement of the question of Germany's colonies, and of other pressing questions alone can avert an eventual war. However, there need be no war if these questions are cared for during the next few years."

Dr. Dengler will speak this evening on recent developments in Germany, at Peabody hall of the college.

DEATHS

THOMAS HEISS, SR.

Thomas Heiss, Sr., 69, 1321 N. Durkee street, died at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon after a lingering illness. Born in Germany Jan. 21, 1868. Mr. Heiss came to Appleton in 1881 and had lived here since that time. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Survivors include the widow; five daughters, Mrs. Frank Koch, Mrs. Alfred Gosh, Miss Edith and Miss Clara, all of Appleton; Mrs. Theodore Gast, Oshkosh; three sons, Thomas, Jr., Walter and Robert, Appleton; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Prasher, Mrs. B. Calumet Fair Association Changes By-Laws and Plans For Golden Jubilee in '38

Chilton—Stockholders of the Calumet County Agricultural association unanimously adopted a series of changes in its by-laws, at a meeting Wednesday at the courthouse. The original constitution and by-laws were adopted in 1891. The association was formed in 1888 as a non-profit organization. It has held county fairs every year but two, and plans are being made to celebrate the Golden Jubilee in the summer or fall of 1938.

By accident, some of the early records of the association were destroyed or lost in 1914, and it is difficult to reconstruct these lost papers, because of the death of many of the early members. So far as available records now show, only 3 or 5 of the charter members are now living.

The meeting, Wednesday considered a series of changes in the by-laws, which were drawn up by Carl Hofmeister, who read and explained the new articles for the reorganizing, which were then unanimously adopted. W. S. Lloyd of Appleton was the only charter member present. He gave an account of the early years of the association.

Ben Rusk, of the university extension department, formerly county agent for Door county, was the speaker of the day. He told how with the aid of 4-H boys and girls and a few representative men throughout the county, the Door county fair, which had not functioned for four years, was revived entirely without any financial aid from the county board.

Unaided by the board, the second fair held under Mr. Rusk's leadership gave a cash balance of $1,600. Thereafter the county board gave some aid, but the new life of the fairs was the result of a fixed policy of securing men from the various towns of the county, who gave at least one day's service on the fair grounds without pay. The practice of giving complimentary tickets was discontinued, even the officers of the association purchasing their admission tickets, Mr. Rusk declared.

Taylor Brown, former county agent of Winnebago county and later mayor of Oshkosh, spoke on county fairs as managed in Wisconsin. He said that the management of Wisconsin fairs ranks among the most successful in the nation. Both speakers said that horse racing seems to be the feature that cannot not be dropped from the fair program.

A bill now pending in the state assembly providing $300,000 for the support of Wisconsin fairs was unanimously endorsed. The sportsmen's club of the county was asked to sponsor a conservation show as a feature of the next county fair.

Stockholders were requested to present their certificates of stock or evidence thereof within the next 90 days to the secretary, so that new certificates may be issued and the record of memberships be brought up to date.

The present officers of the association are: President, Carl Peik, town of Charles-town; vice president, Oscar Moser, town of Stockbridge; treasurer, Herbert Harder, town of Chilton; secretary, T. Henry Weeks, town of Charles-town.

Eighteen relatives of Mrs. Minnie Jensen surprised her Tuesday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Three tables of five hundred were played, prizes going to Mrs. Louis Stecker, Mrs. Arthur Baldock, Mrs. Minnie Jensen, Mrs. Emil Schaf, Mrs. Henry Kroll, Mrs. Charles Schnell, Mrs. Walter Pilling and Mrs. John Rupp. A supper was served, furnished by the guests.

Haul 50 Truck Loads Of Rubbish This Week

Evidence of the mild weather during the last month was given this week when workmen of the street department collected only 50 truck loads of rubbish from the fourth collection district as compared to 62 truck loads from the same district last month. Fewer ashes was given as the reason for the smaller number.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy to cloudy; not much change in temperature to night and Saturday.

GENERAL WEATHER

Light snow has occurred since yesterday morning over sections of the north central states and northern portions of the country, and rain or snow has been general from the Rocky mountains westward but fair weather is general this morning over all the southern states and southern plains states and over the Canadian northwest. It is colder this morning over the southern states, but temperatures are rising over the north central and northeastern states.

Continued cloudy weather with little change in temperature is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

Vandenbush and Two Companions Appear in Court

had robbed the Northern Westchester bank of Katonah, five miles away, a few minutes before.

Partner of another desperado, Harry Brunette—with whom, federal agents said he admitted, he kidnapped William A. Turnbull, New Jersey state trooper, last Nov. 11—Vandenbush and Stuzza held up the bank with conventional technique. Clad in overalls, faces greasy, they drove a half dozen persons at pistol point into a vault, scooped up the money and raced for an automobile at the curb. A short way out of town the three apparently switched to a second car, the coupe, Stuzza and Vandenbush crawling into the baggage compartment.

Set Up Barriade

Warned by a general alarm, Policemen William G. Hendricks, John A. Hergenhan and William Orman had set up a barriade at North Castle. They had stopped several automobiles for questioning when Rera chugged into view.

"Brush salesman. Going to New York," said Rera shortly, but Hendricks thought that sounded evasive. The officers plodded to the rear of the car and whipped open the rumble seat.

Two gun muzzles popped out. Hendricks bellowed the lid shut. He yelled. His fellow officers came on the rug.

"Drop those guns!" they called. Metal thudded on the floor of the car. Vandenbush and Stuzza wormed out, hands high. Rera sat transfixed.

Wisconsin Robberies

Indicated for the Turnbull kidnapping, for which Brunette is serving a life term in New Jersey, Vandenbush also is wanted for bank robberies in Seymour, Ripon and Monroe, Wis. Brunette was captured in a spectacular raid by federal agents under their chief, J. Edgar Hoover, last Dec. 15 in a Manhattan hideout. Vandenbush, who escaped with Brunette from a London, Ohio, prison farm last July, said he had been living in Brooklyn since then.

The bank loot, in a brown shopping bag, was recovered.

District Attorney Walter Ferris said the indictments for the bank robbery would be sought today, notwithstanding a move by federal agents to bring Vandenbush to trial for the Turnbull kidnapping.

"Just a country cop," sneered Vandenbush at Patrolman Hendricks, of the North Castle town police force.

"But, considering the circumstances," they could have filled me full of lead," retorted Hendricks.

BOY CRIMINALS

Green Bay—Merle Vandenbush, 28, captured last yesterday in Bedford, N. Y., and his partner in crime, Harry Brunette, were accused of several robberies in Wisconsin late in 1936 after their escape from a London (Ohio) prison farm.

Both were named in warrants charging robbery of banks at Seymour, Ripon and Monroe.

Vandenbush and Brunette, both of Green Bay, began their careers of crime as boys, authorities said, and became known as "tough young punks."

They became acquainted while at the Green Bay reformatory and kept in contact with one another thereafter.

Vandenbush was sent to the Waukesha Industrial home in 1918 as an incorrigible and served there until 1925, records show. Two years later he was returned here from Ohio and sentenced to three years in the reformatory for forgery. It was then that the Brunette-Vandenbush partnership began.

Automobile Thieves

Released on parole after serving two years, Vandenbush was arrested a few months later and sentenced to a one to two year term for automobile theft. Brunette, freed a few weeks previously, was given a similar sentence.

They left Green Bay together and were arrested in Ohio on charges of assault to rob. Sentenced to a term of 5 to 15 years in the Ohio penitentiary in 1931, Vandenbush and Brunette walked away from a prison farm at New London, Ohio, July 12, 1936.

Brunette was sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the kidnapping of New Jersey State Trooper William A. Turnbull on his plea of guilty to a federal charge of transporting a kidnapped person across state line.

Vandenbush is under indictment in federal and state courts in New Jersey on the same charge.

Resign Positions on College Paper Staff

Resignations of Miss Mary Mortimer, administration editor of the Lawrence, Lawrence college student newspaper, Miss Edith Johnson, student activities editor, and Miss Hester White, feature editor, were announced today. Under the tentative changes made, Miss Penelope Trick will take over the duties of the feature editor; John Fulton, the position of faculty editor; Miss Bettylou Scamling, administration; and Clarence Neraid, student activities. The department heads resigned in order to devote more time to their studies.

Report Entire Battalion Wiped Out During Fight

Insurgents Report End to Government Offensive Near Capital

By the Associated Press

Annihilation of an entire battalion of Madrid militiamen, insurgent officers declared today, wiped out a government offensive on the western border of the capital, near the Segovia bridge.

The hand-to-hand struggle for Oviedo, "the Alcazar of the Asturias," spread into the ancient sewers of the devastated city, advices from Bayonne, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, reported.

The besieged insurgent garrison, blasted out of its fortifications above ground, was said to have entrenched itself in the sewers after a grueling back-to-the-wall battle of nearly a week.

The British steamer Llandovery Castle, her bow dangerously stove in by a floating mine she struck yesterday off Capo Decreus, docked at Port Vendres, France, with 300 passengers.

General Gonzalo Quelpo de Llano broadcast from Seville, Spain, that an insurgent gunboat damaged the Dutch steamer Rambois with shell fire before capturing it and seizing 120 tons of war materials destined for Madrid government troops.

The entire population of the small town of Tortosa, after an air raid in which more than 100 bombs were reported to have been dropped, was said to have fled to the hills.

Hannan Asks for Improvement in Prison System

we do not have sufficient time for the training necessary to insure readjustment.

"Further, it would result in the placing out on parole of many men at an earlier time than is now practical, because of the long terms imposed upon them and the reluctance of administrators in such cases to extend parole experiences for terms of 10, 12 and more years."

Would Reduce Costs

"It would over a long period of years, hold to a minimum the amount of money which the state would have to expend in the expansion of prison institutions," he declared.

He emphasized that the popular conception of the prison as a place of punishment must be uprooted before there can be any correct thinking on the subject of parole.

"Public authority has the power to punish and to forgive," he said. "The pardon power in the chief executive is fundamentally a power which may be used to correct an error."

Colonel Hannan contended the so-called indeterminate sentence law adopted in Wisconsin eight years ago, which makes first offenders eligible for paroles when they have served the minimum sentence is inadequate.

The relation of the newspaper to parole was discussed in a paper prepared by D. D. Michl, managing editor of the Wisconsin State Journal of Madison. He said newspapers could help parole work by omitting reference to the fact a man was paroled. He advocated that the parole board, to prevent any suspicion of corruption, give full publicity to cases of wide public interest.

Favors England's System

Justice Joseph Martin of the supreme court told the conference last night that Wisconsin can clear its prisons, as England has done, by a wise and much more adequate system of probation on parole. He suggested the present legislature should consider giving courts permission to place young offenders on probation for longer periods than the present maximum sentence for each offense, so that they could be guided and helped by the state.

After Captain Donald S. Leonard, Detroit, of the Michigan state police, recommended creation of a Wisconsin state police force, Joseph A. Padway, Milwaukee, counsel for the state federation of labor, objected vigorously late yesterday to any such organization.

"The trouble with a state police force," Padway said, "is that sooner or later it may be used against labor, no matter what the earlier promises were. It has been demonstrated time and again that state police departments step beyond the bounds of their jurisdiction."

Padway said the federation would not object to a bureau of criminal investigation, or to a state radio system for criminal apprehension.

Police Radio Network Working in 4 Counties

With the installation of additional receiving sets in Fond du Lac county Thursday, the staff of station WAKE, police radio transmitter at Oshkosh, now is broadcasting to all four counties in the new network, Irving Stulp, a member of the radio staff, said today.

Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Fond du Lac counties now are receiving service from the Oshkosh station. Calumet and Shawano counties may join some time in the future and with Brown county operating its own system the entire valley area will be covered.

Bill to Ban Guns In Closed Season Advanced in House

Madison—(AP)—The assembly for the second time went on record today in favor of a law to back up a conservation commission rule banning carrying or possession of guns in deer areas, except with a commission permit, when there is no open season on deer.

The house again advanced the bill to its final reading after reconsidering a previous vote, to allow for introduction of amendments. The assemblymen defeated two changes that would have eliminated the phrase "have in his possession" and extended the act to cover all counties.

As it now stands, the bill applies only to areas inhabited by deer in 31 counties—Adams, Ashland, Barron, Bayfield, Burnett, Chippewa, Clark, Columbia, Door, Douglas, Eau Claire, Florence, Forest, Iowa, Iron, Jackson, Juneau, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Marathon, Marquette, Monroe, Oconto, Oneida, Portage, Richland, Sauk, Shawano, Washburn and Wood.

The senate received from its committee on state and local government a plan to set up a $5 voluntary sportsmen's license to include present resident hunting and fishing licenses, deer and bear tags and trapping licenses. Of the sum $2 would be used for acquiring land for game refuges, public hunting and fishing grounds.

Dr. Mielke Reads Paper At Physicians' Dinner

A paper by Dr. E. F. Mielke, Appleton, illustrated by motion pictures, was presented at a dinner meeting of the Outagamie County Medical society at Hotel Appleton Thursday evening. In addition, Dr. E. F. McGrath discussed X-ray diagnosis.

A 6:30 dinner preceded the program and about 35 members of the society were present.

Lewis Sees Public Opinion as Factor In Labor Disputes

Union Chief Says Industry Must Concede Workers Have Right to Bargain

(Prefatory Note: The following interview between David Lawrence and John L. Lewis occurred accidentally, after the article was written it was submitted to Mr. Lewis who, without changing a word, authorized its publication.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—What lies ahead for industrial America, what of the "sit-down" strikes and collective bargaining through government-supervised elections?

Such questions are in the minds of a vast number of people who are not themselves directly involved in the disputes between capital and labor, but who watch from the sidelines the effects of the continuous labor warfare, so I happened to have an opportunity to put these very points before John L. Lewis in an informal way as we were riding on the train between Washington and New York this week.

"Are we in for a year of strikes and interruption of productive processes?" I asked Mr. Lewis.

"The answer depends on industry," he replied. "Will it or will it not concede that workers really have a right to organize to improve their working conditions and wages?"

"But industry does concede that point," I commented.

"Yes, academically," rejoined Mr. Lewis, "but not actually. Every influence and inducement possible, every form of coercion that can be utilized is nevertheless interposed to prevent true collective bargaining."

Law Little Help

It seemed to me that the answer might be elections among workers to determine who shall represent groups of employees, and I inquired why there couldn't be laws to assure free elections in industry so that workmen wouldn't be subject to improper influence. Mr. Lewis said immediately that, of course, there could be laws enacted, but they were of little avail alongside of the power of an employer to induce him to workmen if he didn't want a union organized in his plant.

"What method do you suggest," I asked.

"Labor has to assert its rights," said Mr. Lewis. "This can be done by strikes, if they are necessary. We are anxious to avoid strikes and they are forced only when we feel we cannot gain our objectives by negotiation."

At this point I referred to the disputes between labor organizations and the cropping out of the unauthorized or jurisdictional strike. Mr. Lewis commented thus:

Sees Progress

"I recognize there are abuses. I know there are many things to be ironed out in industrial relations. Some of us are making substantial progress in that direction. The other day, when I opened the conference of bituminous coal representatives, it was my privilege to refer to two years of uninterrupted peace between employers and employees in the coal industry, a period in which there had not been any dispute or friction, something unheard of in the coal industry."

Right here I said that I believed many persons would like to see trade union membership increased in America if there could be responsibility commensurate with power that is as has often been suggested, incorporation of labor unions.

"I have heard that before," laughed Mr. Lewis. "The trouble is people do not realize that a lawsuit against a corporation to enforce a wage agreement is not effective. We have hired the best legal talent; ourselves, but we never have succeeded. As for corporations, they are limited in liability, while individuals in labor unions are not. The same right to sue to enforce a contract is available to both sides."

"Passive Resistance"

"What about the legality of sit-down strikes?" I inquired.

"That has yet to be determined. And I believe that even if its technical aspects are cleared up some day by cases carried to the supreme court, workmen will still continue to use them because they constitute a moral as well as a legal question. Who is to say that a workman in sheer desperation to protect his job shall not employ 'passive resistance'? That term has been known for centuries as a moral weapon against wrong-doing."

"Now I know it is often unpopular to disturb the 'status quo' as that is what we are doing with our present efforts, but you never gain anything for labor by maintaining the 'status quo.' We are going to continue in our present course until industry gives us real collective bargaining."

As we concluded our talk, I asked Mr. Lewis what single step could be taken to reduce the number of industrial disputes. His answer was to suggest that newspapers and writers like myself give more time and thought to ways of achieving collective bargaining than to depicting "sit-down" strikes or any other strike weapon. He seemed to feel that public opinion was going to be the deciding factor rather than new laws or arbitration machinery set up by government.

Corbett Will Attend

Legislative Meeting

Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the chamber's legislative committee will attend a meeting of the third district committee Saturday morning at Ripon. Committee reports on proposed state legislation will be studied by the district group and recommendations and disapprovals will be made. The district meetings are held each week during the current term of the state legislature.

Can't See Anything Very Wrong With High Court

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

New York—One thing I can't get about all this ribbing and needling of the nine old men is the assumption that a lawyer to be eligible for the big bench must never make any progress in his line, but remain an office hack in saffron sleeves and a green visor or content himself with hanging around a police court to defend a casual clientele of peddlers, street-walkers and drunk and disorderlies.

From all that I have read about the ball club in Washington, and my reading includes a second ride on the Bob Allen-Drew Pearson merry-go-round, there seems to be great contempt for the nine old men because they first became successful lawyers.

As such, a lawyer naturally finds himself in demand by big firms, such as railroads and banks, which have plenty of money to spend on big interests. And, of course, he takes the work just as an actor takes the opportunity to move out of the back-room of some saloon known as the Caez Goldfarb or the Lido Mulligan, where he is putting in his nights slinging some poor skinny wisp around, and sell his soul to Hollywood at $3,000 a week. Under the rule which governed the contest while the present generation of adults were growing up in this country, that was the regular thing to do.

Horatio Alger, whoever he may have been, was a more significant writer than we have ever realized or, anyway, admitted. He was our Kipling, so to speak and, though he told the same story over and over, it was, to a whole generation of Americans, the sweetest story ever told.

Ambition is to Get Near the Top

The success story authors of the post-war Republican era were only whittling splinters of Horatio's one idea and, looking about the present scene, I notice a few individuals who are personally imbued with the same ambition, which is to get up there near the top.

Anyway, I know that the rules haven't been changed and that people are still scrambling and tussling to get ahead in the law, journalism, politics and every other line, just as the nine old men did. Writers will write to get ahead, and write to specifications, too.

But there is no supreme court in the writing business in which a man can put himself away on the cushions for the rest of his life, so some go to the movies, some to the copper companies or Standard Oil and some make a permanent good thing out of railing at social ills. There is gold in them ills, podner, and dough is the medium of exchange for groceries and baby bonds.

I still don't see anything very wrong with the ball team. Those old men have their little vanities and petty personal foibles, but they shouldn't count unless you are going to take testimony under oath from all the waves of all the people who float over these personal peculiarities and make direct comparison. Everybody has these ornery or silly little traits and if old Mr. Taft had a leaning toward pompous splendor, then what is it that makes the common man move out to the suburbs and join a golf club and his wife sling a cocktail-bridge on the patio as soon as they get enough money. I think that that in Mr. Taft only shows that he was one of us, as for Mr. Hughes and his inconsistencies, I can show you equal inconsistencies in the writings of everyone who has had him in the grease and even more suspicious ones in the record of Mr. Roosevelt. Naturally, a man who has been a corporation lawyer by way of providing his proficiency in the law, will come to the supreme court with at least a reasonable mind toward the corporate interests which he has pleaded in the courts. What a liar he would have to be, one way or the other, if he were not so disposed.

But what are you going to do? Select a lot of venal old bums to out-vote the nine, or an equal number of judicial tankers to go into the water at the word of command from a man in the White House who wouldn't be so gorgeous himself if you were to go into his own career in the same lint-picking, malicious way that the nine old men have been examined under the microscope? There isn't a man on earth who looks himself without his pants and I insist that it isn't fair or important to yank back the black kidmonos of the supreme court and yell derisively. "Look, they wear long drawers!"

And yet, I don't think it would be illegal to do as the president demands. But I go back to the time when prohibition was slipped over on this country in the absence of the A. E. F. It was finally agreed that this had been a dirty trick. And I think it is indicative of Franklin's way that he didn't mention all this while the people had a chance to vote yes or no, but sprung it is a rush act when we were trying to tie our shoe, pluck a duck and change the baby all at once.

Kentucky distilleries produced 73,674,528 gallons of whisky last year to entrench the state's position as the nation's greatest whisky producer.

Don't Complain to Seller, Winter May Kill Shrubs

If those beautiful shrubs purchased last spring and carefully tended through the summer months, failed to survive the winter, don't blame it on the man from whom you purchased them, is the advice offered by leading state entomologists.

Even well watered trees and shrubs suffered from the terrific heat as well as drought last summer and the lack of snow for long periods during the winter months undoubtedly killed many more. Appleton nurserymen point out.

All shrubs and trees offered for sale in Wisconsin are state inspected and floor stocks of stores are examined regularly with dead and diseased plants being burned.

for shade trees crops out, a shortage in this field also will be noticed.

Although shrubs are purchased by many persons throughout the year, the greatest demand is reported at planting time in the middle of April. A method of solicitation in which shrubs are delivered at specified dates proves of great value to many nurserymen.

MARCHING AGAIN WITH SHERMAN TO THE SEA

The Georgia rabble-rousers who have been fuming at General Sherman might have performed a service to the country had they unearthed the correspondence between Sherman and the Southern commander, Hood, as the Union army stood before Atlanta.

That correspondence brings something of the conflict in Spain before us, the problems and the tortures of war, and we doubt whether anything could be written more effectively painting for all of us that singular struggle of 75 years ago and in whose story there is much of value for us all today.

When Atlanta acknowledged its willingness to surrender to Sherman the Union general sent a communication to the southern commander outlining his plans for taking over the city. All civilians must be evacuated, Sherman said. What to do with them was the problem of the South.

This was an order, frightful to the confederacy. There were no paved roads and only broken and insufficient means of transportation. But Sherman considered it a necessity of war. He recorded that he had learned through the taking of Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans that captured territory can be a great burden because of the necessity of leaving a strong contingent of troops to rule and guard it. Sherman did not intend to leave troops at Atlanta. He needed his men on the way to Savannah. Already he had given General Halleck, his chief-of-staff, notice of his purpose, writing Halleck that against any cry of barbarity or cruelty, "I will answer that war is war, and not popularity seeking."

When Sherman made known his purpose to General Hood the Southerner wrote:

"And now, sir, permit me to say that the unprecedented measure you propose transcends, in studied and ingenious cruelty, all acts ever brought to my attention in the dark history of war. In the name of God and humanity, I protest, believing that you will find that you are expelling from their homes and firesides the wives and children of a brave people."

General Sherman was not to miss this opportunity for a skirmish with the pen after his recent battles with the sword. And he replied:

"You style the measures proposed 'unprecedented,' and appeal to the dark history of war for a parallel, as an act of 'studied and ingenious cruelty.' It is not unprecedented; for General Johnston himself very wisely and properly removed the families all the way from Dalton down, and I see no reason why Atlanta should be excepted."

"In the name of common sense, I ask you not to appeal to a just God in such a sacrilegious manner. You who, in the midst of peace and prosperity have plunged the nation into war—dark and cruel war—who dared and badgered us into battle, insulted our flag, seized our arsenals and forts that were left in the honorable custody of peaceful ordinance-bearing, seized and made 'prisoners of war' the very garrisons sent to protect your people against negroes and Indians, long before any overt act was committed by the (to you) hated Lincoln government; tried to force Kentucky and Missouri into rebellion, save of themselves; falsified the vote of Louisiana; turned loose your privateers to plunder unarmed ships, expelled Union families by the thousands, burned their houses, and declared, by an act of your Congress, the confiscation of all debts due Northern men for goods, had and received. If we must be enemies, let us be men, and fight it out as we propose to do, and not deal in such hypocritical appeals to God and humanity. God will judge us in due time, and he will pronounce whether it be more humane to fight with a town full of women and the families of a brave people at our back, or to remove them in time to places of safety among their own friends and people."

Back wrote General Hood: "You order into exile the whole population of a city: drive men, women and children from their homes at the point of a bayonet, under the plea that it is to the interests of your government, and on the claim that it is an act of 'kindness to these families of Atlanta.' You issue a sweeping edict, covering all the inhabitants of a city, and add insult to the injury heaped upon the defenseless by assuming that you have done them a kindness."

"You came into our country with your army, awfully for the purpose of subjugating free white men, women and children, and not only to rule over them but you make negroes your allies, and desire to place over us an inferior race, which we have raised from barbarism to its present position which is the highest ever attained by that race, in any country, in all time. I must, therefore, decline to accept your statements in reference to your kindness toward the people of Atlanta, and your willingness to sacrifice every thing for the peace and honor of the South, and refuse to be governed by your decision in regard to matters between myself, my country and my God.

"You say, 'let us fight it out like men.' To this my reply is—for myself, and I believe for all the true men, ay, and women and children in my country—we will fight you to the death! Better die a thousand deaths than submit to live under you or your government and your negro allies."

Mayor Calhoun and two councilmen of Atlanta now entered the duel, also protesting to General Sherman against his orders. Addressing himself to these gentlemen the general wrote:

"I have read your petition carefully, and give full credit to your statements of the distress that will be occasioned, and yet shall not evoke my orders, because they were not designed to meet the humanities of the case, but to prepare for the future struggles in which millions of good people outside of Atlanta have a deep interest. We must have peace, not only at Atlanta, but in all America. To secure this, we must stop the war that now desolates our once happy and favored country. To stop war we must defeat the rebel armies which are arrayed against the laws and Constitution that all must respect and obey.

"You cannot qualify war in harsher terms than I will. War is cruelty, and you cannot refine it; and those who brought war into our country deserve all the curses and maledictions a people can pour out. I know I had no hand in making this war, and I know that I will make more sacrifices to-day than any of you to secure peace. But you cannot have peace and a division of our country.

"You might as well appeal against the thunder-storm as against these terrible hardships of war. They are inevitable, and the only way the people of Atlanta can hope once more to live at peace and quiet at home, is to stop the war, which can only be done by admitting that it began in error and is perpetuated in pride.

"We don't want your negroes, or your horses, or your houses, or your lands, or anything you have, but we do want and will have a just obedience to the laws of the United States. That we will have, and if it involved the destruction of your improvements, we cannot help it.

"I want peace, and believe it can only be reached through union and war, and I will ever conduct war with a view to perfect and early success."

It is too bad General Sherman is not living today to preach this message to a world girding its loins once again for false-prided battle.

For his language was vigorous and powerful just as his thinking was straight and true.

Let us not forget that it takes rabble-rousers in one form or another to cause a war or to create the conditions that lead to it, but that after they have hidden in the swamps to avoid military service it is the earnest and sincere men of a nation who must cure the ailments created by the shouters, a task that is often painful in the extreme.

OH, THESE JUDGES!

Another court has frustrated a noble idea and must be penalized in some manner. The Provincial Supreme Court has held that Alberta, even under the benign rule of William Abernethy, cannot cut in two the interest on its public debt without the consent of the persons to whom it owes the money.

Thus is Canada facing somewhat the same problem we have in America.

Both countries need courts that are more sympathetic with those willing to promise anything in order to get funds to spend and just as willing to break any agreement that stands in the way of more borrowing and more spending.

The courts are too cussed particular. If a province promises to pay 4 per cent on 150 million dollars the legislators borrow why must we have judges to get out a pencil to demonstrate that 2 per cent is not 4 per cent? They seem to be bounds for arithmetic.

We need older men on the bench. Perhaps they should be young men who haven't as much conscience as those who have more experience.

But above everything we must get rid of the kind of men who make legislators account for what seems to be the normal results of their acts.

Some men who reason in a short-sighted manner might blame the Alberta legislators of 15 years ago who borrowed this 150 million dollars and spent it. But that isn't the solution of progress. Never cuss out those who made the original blunder but raise Old Nick with the old-fashioned gazaboos who think a word of honor should not be lightly tossed aside.

Dr. C. D. Grinnells, veterinarian at the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment station, says swine erysipelas, or diamond skin disease, is spreading in North Carolina.

Persons who undertake part-time farming with a view to financial gain "are likely to be disappointed," says a bulletin of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment station.

T. T. Brown, poultry specialist at North Carolina State college, says the 393 demonstration poultry flocks in his state earned their owners a profit of $12,994 in one month last year.

Opium is now sold by the government in China but only to licensed smokers, who must cure themselves before 1940, when all trade in opium is scheduled to be suppressed.

Drug smugglers in China have adopted the use of humming pigeons, each of which can carry three ounces of dope, to evade the vigilance of government inspectors.

PEGGY GARCIA'S suit against Dave Rubinoff was, according to justice, tossed out of court the other day. . . . Miss Garcia, however, seemed to take her defeat in good grace and was smiling broadly. . . . all of which confirms the suspicion that maybe Peggy wasn't after Rubinoff's half million after all. . . . she was after a half million in publicity and, folks, she got it. . . . when it came to light that she had also received two offers of marriage and several potential theatre contracts, the light suddenly dawned that Miss Garcia was resorting to a gag that, while time-worn, still works. . . .

She wasn't counting on the bigamy charges, though.

It is an unfair world, however, because a gal can pull this stunt and get away with it and a man gets nowhere. Witness the lad who claimed to be Mae West's husband and got himself a lot of ink in the course of events.

But did he get any offers of marriage or any contracts?

Phooie.

What WAS his name, anyway?

AND WHILE WE ARE ON THE SUBJECT—

Jonah:

So, it is charged that "the Flint Alliance and Flint Police" started a riot during the recent General Motors strike "to cause trouble and blame it on the union."

Don't be surprised if you hear Mr. Lewis testify to the Civil Liberties Committee that the Messrs. Knudsen & Sloan hired him to pull off the strike in order that General Motors might receive a lot of free publicity—going a la Mae West, so to speak.

You get the idea, eh what?

—PICKAWAY

One idea I do get, and apparently most of the sit-downers don't get, is the fact that after they have become organized under the C.I.O. plan, they will support labor leaders in the manner to which labor leaders want to become accustomed, provide labor leaders with a political club (which is the antithesis of democracy), and otherwise shell out dough that they could keep for themselves without sacrificing any of their rights to organize or bargain collectively.

Of course, this is neither my own idea, nor my personal conviction. I do know, however, that it has been proved that a company union can give to its workers every protection possible for any kind of a union to give, and yet cost them next to nothing.

The fact that not all company unions accomplish this purpose is indicative of the fact that the possibilities have not been grasped by labor. The royal ballot is a protection that no economic socialist or exploiter of labor can penetrate.

A Verse for Today

YOUR PRESENCE

Your presence lays calm hands upon my mind. Though you are far away from me tonight, I summon you, and soon the peace designed for happy hearts makes my horizon bright. It is as if a tranquil angel stood beside my chair to give me hope and cheer. My memories of you are winged with good, And they endure through every changing year.

Your steady gaze, the firm line of your chin Are mine to ponder over in an hour. When the gray dust of loneliness seeps in, And happiness has lost its ruddy power, Though far apart and lonely we may be, The thought of you has balm to comfort me. (Copyright, 1937)

ALL READY FOR THE LAST ROUND

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ONE "COLD" AFTER ANOTHER

One M. Hajek, named as the greatest authority on rhinology by Dr. Alice V. MacKenzie, in an informative, practical paper on "Cold in the Head" in the January, 1937, issue of The Medical World, sounds like a guy I'd like to smoke a pipe with. . . . But I do not guarantee this. There may be a catch in it. For all I know, M. Hajek may be Mary or Min Hajek. . . . incidentally had said to all who so conceal their gender, I have to address letters to some of 'em every day. I give them all the benefits of the doubt by using the title Mrs.

Mysterious Hajek, it appears, maintains that it is impossible for one to pick up cold-producing germs in the fresh cold air where they do not exist; he contends that "colds" are spread from person to person, just like influenza or other acute infectious fever. Can any one deny the logic of Hajek, inquires Dr. MacKenzie rhetorically. Here I interrupt for a moment to say my, my, a hundred thousand doctors will deny it and a hundred million laymen will pronounce poor Hajek as nutty as I am. At least every one over fifty or sixty will say that many doctors and laymen live that long.

Being unaware when she wrote the article that I should indulge in my favorite pastime of long-distance heckling, Dr. MacKenzie impetuously pursues her discussion. No, she answers, you can't deny its logic, yet we find people catching "colds" from exposure to cold air, paradoxical as it may seem. Paradoxical as it may seem to whom, for clearness sake? Nothing paradoxical about it to the hundred thousand old foggy doctors and the hundred million old fossil laymen who believe they contract actual illness from exposure to cold fresh air. The fancy that people acquire any such illness in that way is paradoxical only to queer birds like Molly or Mat Hajek and me. But we don't mind keeping 99,998 other docs and 100,000,000 laymen waiting while Dr. MacKenzie explains how come people harbor such a belief. She caught it from another member of the family, who in turn caught it from some one else. But others declare they take cold every time they go out of doors without a hat or coat, and instead of having one cold a season they have half a dozen or more, and invariably from just such exposure.

Yes, in deed, and that brings up sad memories. Lost one of my best subscribers once shortly after we went to the mat in his sanatorium over this very question, and I was factious enough to throw back my head and haw-haw at the old gent's earnest insistence that he never failed to take cold if he even walked a few blocks on damp pavements without his overshoes. As usual I laughed first and thought of the importance of overshoes in commerce later.

Now Dr. MacKenzie suggests that these sensitive old-timers to begin with, and all the other alleged "fresh colds" they have through the season are but flare-ups of the original infection which though apparently cured, has been slumbering in one of the sinuses perhaps. She points out that proper treatment of the sinus complication generally stops this "cold habit."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Quinine
Please tell me something about quinine and how it acts on the body. Has it any effect on the liver? In what form is it best taken?

Just what to ask for in drug-store. . . . (R. P.)

Answer—You do not mention the purpose for which you intend to take quinine. To prevent malaria, in malarial districts, the daily dose is ten grains of quinine sulphate preferably taken in capsules. Many persons have found relief from stage fright, buck fever or examination anxiety by taking one grain of quinine sulphate in capsule, tablet or pill, three times a day, before or after meals, for a week or ten days before the ordeal.

Tired Spinach
Can you suggest a spray to keep spinach fresh and crisp? What we get now looks so wilted. . . . (Mrs. M. E. S.)

Answer—I regret I know of nothing that will brace up tired spinach. As long as it is to be cooked, what difference does it make?

No Great Shakes
Is a hand vibrator used to massage the body also good to use on the heart? . . . (W. A. J.)

Answer—I do not understand how it could be used on the heart? If you mean to apply it over the area of the heart, it is as good there as anywhere else. (Copyright, 1937)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — "Tin-ear Alley" in New York is Cauliflower Row, or, broadly, the hangout of prize-fighters, where the big matches are arranged, and where palookas, on round heads, shuffle around, begging fights and talking of fabled greatness in the past.

For days a distinct odor of overripe fish has hung in the sector, and now the reason is clear. This is a little package the boys have wrapped and ready for delivery to Max Schmeling, the ex-champion, who would be the champ right now if James J. Braddock hadn't taken a run-out powder on him last summer.

To appreciate all this, you must understand that nobody really minds a run-out powder around here—nobody, that is, except the man holding the sack. With its reputation for the double cross and the double deal, a little thing like a run-out is scarcely noticed in New York, and that is why they are trying like mad to arrange a fight between Joe Louis (whom Schmeling slaughtered) and Braddock, strictly a second rater, in Chicago, or elsewhere.

Braddock wants no part of Schmeling because, so his manager says, the Jewish boycott would kill the gate, Schmeling having had the extremely bad taste to be born a German. Another reason, one accepted by a large portion of the populace, is that Schmeling figures to knock Braddock's block off, if he can ever induce him to get into a ring, and Braddock doesn't want to vacate the crown with his purse still empty.

Braddock, as champion, has hustled around now for nearly two years without officially putting on a glove. He won the title by outlasting Max Baer, a ham and a clown who was thoroughly performed and made to say "uncle" by the same Louis whom Schmeling half killed.

In the light of all this, how could they call a fight between Braddock and Louis a championship affair, especially since the winner of the Louis-Schmeling fight was practically assured of a title go? That fight was to provide the opponent for Braddock's first defense, and had Louis won he would have been shoved into a ring with the champ in a hurry.

However, the German won, and Braddock started bleating about an ailing paw—arthritis, it was—in an old wound which he has carried for years.

Nobody has anything personally against Jim Braddock, but he has certainly lost prestige by his behavior, and it is the opinion of a large majority of fight fans that he has the title only by the greatest sort of fluke.

The only hope I see for Schmeling is for the state boxing commission to vacate Braddock's title if he refuses to meet Max. He and Schmeling have signed contracts and each has posted $5,000 forfeit money, but that doesn't mean a lot in this village of easy conscience and smart lawyers. It looks to me like the German is having a very foul trick played upon him, and if he wants to salvage any shreds of his remaining chances for a wack at the title he'd better say Auf Wiedersehen to Mister Hitler and get on over here.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

You cannot depend too much on other people attending to things for you this day. Forgetfulness will be more or less prevalent. This is a good day to give people with whom you have an engagement an early reminder of it, if it is possible. In seeking advice, be sure that the party you consult is disinterested, and has no axe of his own to grind. For selfishness is apt to play an important part in this day's events. You may discover that individual taste and opinions vary greatly, so do not depend too much on someone else's judgment in your selection of some form of diversion. For conversational purposes many people, today, will draw upon their imagination, so it might be well to take a good deal of what you hear with a grain of salt. Married and engaged couples, and those marking time before announcing their engagement, must be prepared to take good naturedly much joking at their own expense.

If a woman and February 27 is your birthday, you may be inclined to be very in your selection of some form of diversion. You are also likely to be extremely impressionable, with the result that your mind may dwell too much on trivial, unpleasant happenings. Cultivate the habit of knowing you are as capable, intelligent, and as entertaining as anyone else. Let disagreeable things roll off of your mind, like water does off a duck's back. You have it in your power to do this with a little effort and if you do your happiness will increase a hundred fold. You have a marvelous personality, that must not be allowed to be hidden by a mask of excessive modesty. As a secretary, librarian, buyer, artist, author, public stenographer or teacher you may have the opportunity of having your real worth

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Representative Ludlow of Indiana has hit on a method by which he hopes to get money for flood relief.

Present income tax laws limit contributions or gifts for charitable purposes to 15 per cent of income in one category, and to 5 per cent in another. It is intended to prevent rich persons from fattening the income of some charity of their own choosing in order to escape paying excess income into the treasury.

Ludlow proposes, in a bill, to take the lid off public giving—provided the giving is directed to the Red Cross or to other relief agencies for flood relief in 1937.

Seeks Bullet Profit

William King Richardson of Washington, who patented a streamlined bullet used during the war and since, is asking congress to make special provision for the court of claims to hear his appeal for some profits out of the invention.

In case you don't recall, old-time bullets had flat tails, howled like a banshee through the air and didn't go especially far or straight.

Long before automobile makers thought of rounding off the tail of the family gas-burner to reduce the vacuum draft, Richardson decided a round-tailed projectile would make a faster, straighter journey to the enemy's vest pocket.

He was right and got a patent on the idea.

The government, he said in outlining his claims to congress, began using his style of bullets during the World War. The court of claims recognized his patent but by a complex ruling prevented his profiting by it. Representative Huyler of Kansas introduced the resolution intended to give the court of claims a new opportunity to hear Richardson's case.

About Horses

Not to be overlooked is the request by Representative Smith of Virginia for printing 110,000 copies of the "Special Report on the Diseases of the Horse."

That is about one for every 100 horses in the United States and about 200 for every member of congress.

Mr. Smith would have most of them apportioned among congressmen for distribution. Total cost: $50,000.

gratifyingly recognized. It seems logical that you should marry and be very happy.

The child born on February 27, is likely, upon graduating, to surprise both family and friends by some unusual accomplishment. This youngster may plod along for sometime, before revealing it has some very remarkable talent, or a rare ability to do some worthwhile thing.

If a man and February 27 is your natal day, you may be too easy-going for your own good. You have a vast amount of ability, if you will but use it wisely. Exert yourself sufficiently, and you can make a wonderful success of your life. As an inventor, chemist, agriculturalist, engineer, writer, painter, electrician or salesman there is no limit to what you can accomplish.

Joan Clark, John Catlin Will be Wed

Principals and Attendants Entertained at Luncheon This Noon

NEARING the climax of a busy week, the men of the Joan Clark-John Catlin wedding party and several of the other out-of-town men guests here for the affair were entertained at a luncheon given this noon at the Valley Inn by Mr. Catlin, after which the group, most of whom are from out of town, were taken by their host on a tour of inspection through the Kimberly-Clark paper mill. Rehearsal for the wedding, which will take place Saturday evening at the First Presbyterian church, was scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon at the church.

Ready for donning are the lovely pastel bridal gowns in the wardrobes of Mrs. Jacob Bischoff, Chicago, Ill., who will be Miss Clark's matron of honor for that ceremony by candlelight tomorrow evening; of Mrs. Winston Rodemer, Park Ridge, Ill.; Mrs. Colin J. Thomas, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Carleton Smith, 1205 E. Forest avenue, Neenah; and Mrs. Robert Carney, Chicago, who will be her bridesmaids. Pastel blue chiffon will fashion the bridesmaids' frocks.

William Wing, Jr., Appleton, will be Mr. Catlin's best man and the ushers will be Tom and Mark Catlin Jr., both of Appleton, Edward G. Heberlein, Madison, John Bell, Rector Forest, Ill., and William Kellett, Menasha.

Last evening Mr. Catlin was honored guest at the traditional bachelor dinner which precedes all weddings. William C. Wing, Jr., entertained for him at the home of his parents, 143 N. Park avenue, Neenah. Guests included Mark Catlin Jr., Tom Catlin, William Kellett, Menasha; John Bell, Milwaukee; Edward Heberlein, Madison; William Healy, New York City; and Carl Thomas, Baltimore, Md. and Carleton Smith, Neenah.

Tonight at the Carleton Smith home on E. Forest avenue in Neenah, Miss Clark and Mr. Catlin will be guests of honor at a dinner dance. Saturday noon the bridal party will be entertained at a luncheon by Mrs. Grace K. Sensenbrenner, Church street, Neenah.

Parties

Mrs. Orville Ness was hostess to her luncheon-bridge club Thursday afternoon at Convey hotel. Two ladies were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. Louis Dennis, Jr., Menasha; Mrs. Stanley Larson, Neenah; and Mrs. Ness, Appleton.

Miss Laura Zwerg, 614 N. Division street, gave a dinner and bridge party Thursday night at her home in honor of Miss Ruth Cohen, who will leave Sunday for Los Angeles, Calif. Honors at bridge were won by Miss Laura Gilman and Miss Margaret Milligan. There were eight guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ehle, 1527 N. Morrison street, entertained the Erb Park Sod Busters at dinner Thursday night in honor of their son, Harold, a member of the group, who was 15 years old. Those present were Lorraine and Ralph Junge, Robert, Elaine and John Meyer, Jr. Games were played and prizes won by Elaine and John Meyer, Jr. Lorraine and Ralph Junge. The guests presented Harold with a gift.

The Service bakery entertained Thursday night at the Metropolitan cafe at one of the dinners which it gives about four times a year for its sales force. There were 44 persons present.

Donald Kloes, 1048 E. Vine street, is entertaining 10 little boys at a dinner party this evening at his home. Games and music have been planned for the entertainment of the guests.

A charity dance will be sponsored by Debonnaires from 8 to 11:30 tonight in the corridor of the Zuelke building. Proceeds of the affair will be used for charitable work which the club does during the year.

List Winners in Play At Weekly Tournament

National league winners in the contract bridge tournament session played Thursday night in Elks hall were John Neller and Mark Catlin, while Mrs. John Balliet and her daughter, Ellen, took first place in the American league. Winners of second place were Mrs. Royall LaRose and H. A. DeBauer in the National league and Mrs. Dan Conside and Mrs. Henry Scheil in the American league.

Sixth District Nurses To Hear Sister Bernice

Sister Bernice, dean of the Marquette university college of nursing, will speak at a meeting of Sixth District of Wisconsin State Nurses association at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Hotel Menasha. Sister Bernice's subject will be "Trends in Nursing and the New Four-Year Course Leading to a B. S. Degree."

THESE APPLETON GIRLS TO BE HONORED BY MORTAR BOARD

These six Appleton girls are among the twenty-five Lawrence college women who are being honored at Mortar Board's annual scholarship banquet tonight at Ormsby hall. In the front row are, left to right, Miss Jane Cornell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cornell, 309 N. Catherine street; Miss Martha Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Lyon, 515 N. Ida street; and Miss Mary White, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rosebush, 411 E. Washington street. Behind them, reading in the same direction, are Miss Irene Bosserman, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Bosserman, 219 S. Allen street; Miss Annabelle Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Wolf, 833 E. North street; and Miss Marjorie Fulton, daughter of Mrs. D. L. Fulton, 903 E. Alton street. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Appleton, Neenah Girls Among Beautiful Co-Eds

THREE Appleton and two Neenah girls are among sixteen winners in the preliminaries of the beauty contest which is being sponsored by the Ariel, Lawrence college yearbook, it was announced today. The local winners are Miss Ellen Driscoll, 411 W. Sixth street; Miss Mary Lou Baris, 323 N. Appleton street; and Miss Margaret Jennings, 1124 E. North street. Those from Neenah are Miss Peggy Kimberly, 569 E. Wisconsin avenue, and Miss Ann Shattuck, 324 E. Wisconsin avenue. Miss Belva Stratton, 511 Center street, Waupaca, was also named in the preliminaries.

George B. Petty, artist and color cartoonist, has been named judge in the contest and will select the eight final winners. The two winning members of each class will be honored with full-page photographs in the Ariel in May. According to Miss Mildred Gaenge, Milwaukee, editor of the Ariel, Mr. Petty's choice will not be announced until the book appears. The 16 girls, from each class, were chosen by vote of Lawrence men during the fall months.

Other winners in the contest, in addition to the six from this vicinity, are Miss Ruth Gray and Miss Dorothy Mitchell, Chicago; Miss Betty Jane Schaible, Milwaukee; Miss Ruth Lundin, Ironwood, Mich.; Miss Dorothy Below, Elmhurst, Ill.; Miss Marian Hummel, Fond du Lac; Miss Elizabeth Scott, Oak Park, Ill.; Miss Betty Jane Winans, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Miss Rosemary Dupont, Cloquet, Minn.; and Miss Hester White, Birmingham, Mich.

Austrian Lecturer to Appear Here Tonight

Dr. Paul L. Dengler, Austria, director and founder of the Austrian-American Institute of Education, will give a public lecture at 8 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the Lawrence college. His subject will be "School and Home in the Fascist State." Dr. Dengler's return to America this winter is his eighth visit to this country.

Play Will Be Given at Church Hall

"NORA, Wake Up!" a comedy-drama in three acts will be presented by St. Mary parish March 16 and 17 at Columbia hall for the benefit of the station fund. This is the annual St. Patrick's day entertainment.

The cast of characters is as follows: Mrs. Peggy Calahan, Bertha Barry; Bridget, Honora Calahan; Helen Van Ryn; Johnny Calahan, Francis Rooney; Carlyle Coleridge, J. Martin Van Ryn; Danny Mullins, Richard Mullins; Mrs. Edmondson, Marion Campbell; Edmund Edmondson, Dan O'Neil; Katie Schwartz, Mary Schwartz.

The Rev. L. D. Scanlan, assistant pastor at St. Mary church, is directing the play. Ed Murphy is acting as stage manager and Miss Elizabeth Glasheen and Robert Peerenboom are stage property managers. The play which is by Lillian Mortimer tells the story of Nora who thinks that her old-fashioned Irish mother is a person to be ashamed of and that her high-flying admirer is far superior to Danny, the unpretentious suitor who really loves her. She bullies her mother into investing all the family savings in oil stock sold her by her admirer who is trying to unload worthless securities.

Local Sorority Will be Represented at Meeting

WHEN Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music sorority, holds its Gamma province convention this weekend at Madison, Xi chapter of Lawrence college will be represented by its president, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hopfensperger, Neenah, and Miss Mary Bonini, Appleton, as business delegates, and Miss Genevieve Falk, Barron, Wis., as performing delegate.

Local Pair Leaves for California

M R. and Mrs. Frank Harwood, 319 S. Meade street, left Thursday for California, where they will join Mrs. T. E. Orbison, who had gone on ahead to be with her daughter, Ruth, while she was recovering from an operation. Miss Orbison is a student at Pomona college in California.

Returned from a trip to Florida, Mrs. C. T. Elias, 726 E. Washington street, has brought back with her news of several persons of this vicinity whom she met in the south. She spent several days with Mrs. William Sullivan of Kankakee, who is vacationing at Lake Worth, Fla., and also called on Dr. O. P. Fairfield, retired professor of art history and appreciation at Lawrence college, and Mrs. Fairfield at Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Elias went to Florida by way of St. Louis and New Orleans with Mrs. E. W. Shannon, who returned to Appleton about two weeks ago, while Mrs. Elias stayed on. Among the places she visited were the Bok Singing tower, Silver Springs, Miami, St. Petersburg, St. Augustine and Palm Beach, and on the way home she stopped in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Baldwin, 706 S. Memorial drive, who have been visiting Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Albright, N. Lake drive, Milwaukee, are now occupying the apartment of Mrs. August Uihlein Pabst on N. Downer avenue. Milwaukee, Mrs. Pabst is in New York. The Baldwins are expected back in Appleton Sunday or Monday.

Mrs. R. H. Wuergler, 714 W. Third street, and Mrs. J. E. Grassberger, 709 S. Memorial drive, went to Chicago Thursday to attend the funeral of a relative. On their return they will stop at Milwaukee to spend a few days with Carl and Joseph, Grassberger, Jr., sons of Mrs. Grassberger.

Mrs. Karl Korb Is Honored at Shower At Clintonville

Neighbors and friends of Mrs. Karl Korb, Clintonville, honored her at a post-nuptial shower Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. C. Dix, also of Clintonville. Mrs. Elmer Lemke and Mrs. Walter Essman were the assisting hostesses. Twenty-two guests were in attendance and presented Mrs. Korb with a gift. Honors at bridge went to Mrs. Mae Hauser, Mrs. Henry Korb and Mrs. Donald Jorgenson. A special prize was won by Mrs. John Winkler and several prizes were given for buncos. Announcement was made recently of the marriage of Miss Marcella Lemke and Karl Korb, both of Clintonville.

Mrs. A. H. Otto, Clintonville, entertained at a post-nuptial shower Tuesday evening for Mrs. Arthur Heideman, who was Miss Almida Dearth, Clintonville, before her recent marriage. Bridge was played at four tables, honors going to Mrs. Clara Lang; Miss Marcella Bescht, Miss Bernice Schroeder and Miss Grace Piehl.

Meeting the decorations arrangements, and Kenneth Walker, Milwaukee, is in charge of ticket sales. Any surplus derived from the event will go toward the purchase of a trophy case for the gymnasium.

Appleton Elks to Make Award for Citizenship

WISCONSIN Elks Association in order to encourage and reward youthful achievement in good citizenship has established an annual scholarship award of $300 for Wisconsin high school students. Appleton lodge, No. 337, of Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in addition to participating in the state award, has provided for an annual award of $100 to an Appleton high school senior who is outstanding in citizenship, and the winner of the local award will automatically become eligible for competition in the state contest.

The purpose and rules governing the Appleton award state that the name of the award shall be the Appleton Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks Citizenship award, and the purpose shall be to promote and stimulate good American citizenship among high school pupils. The award shall be granted annually to the high school senior who, in the judgment of the committee, excels in citizenship. Both boys and girls are eligible to receive the award, and excellence in citizenship shall be construed to embrace superiority in scholarship, character, service and leadership as exhibited by contestants during their entire high school career.

A committee of three, consisting of the exalted ruler of the Appleton lodge, the high school principal and a member of the high school faculty shall examine the credentials of contestants and choose the winner. The award will be presented annually at the high school awards day in June by a member of the Appleton Elk lodge selected by the exalted ruler.

The local award will consist of $100 to be applied on tuition, fees and book expenses at any institution of higher learning. The Appleton Elks scholarship committee includes Judge Edgar V. Werner, H. H. Melbie, Dr. R. V. Landis, J. M. Van Rooy, Gordon Derber and H. K. Derus.

Lawrence Symphony in Creditable Performance

BY GEORGE HOFFMAN
THE Lawrence college symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Percy Fullinwider, last night opened its twenty-sixth season with a concert before a large audience at Memorial chapel. The orchestra's efforts received generous applause and gave a highly creditable performance which marks it as a musical organization of distinct potentialities.

A performance by the Lawrence symphony is a musical event worth attending. Last night's audience made that clear, both in numbers and in enthusiasm. There are real musicians in the group, and their work stands out.

One could wish at times for a little more interpretive feeling in the work of the whole orchestra, for a certain recognition and emphasis of musical climaxes, but their work as a whole brings the community an opportunity to hear orchestral works which would rarely be heard locally except for them, and for the civic orchestra's concerts.

The program was nicely balanced between the classical composers in the first group, and the modern American selections in the second. Mendelssohn, Bach and Mozart numbers of charm composed the opening section, the Mozart symphony climaxing it.

The Powell and Guion suites in the second section were delightful in their orchestral setting of native American folk-material. The Guion subject-matter, A Negro preacher's sermon, a dark whistling in a dark alley, and a darkey playing the harmonica, were racy American idiom at their best.

In the March and Procession of Bacchus from Delibes' "Sylvia" ballet, as in the Mozart symphony, a certain halting, restrained quality was all that kept the performance from being bang-up, top-notch music. The orchestra could afford to work over the Mozart again for their spring concert, as they did with the Franck D Minor last year, and then give it with the professional verve and vivacity of a metropolitan symphony. There were moments when one wanted to stand up and yell, "Let go of it!" in last night's concert. Otherwise it was fine music.

It is difficult to offer encouragement in the news columns where some people may mistake any evaluation for sharp criticism. The Lawrence symphony performs so capably that it makes one wish that it would grasp its opportunities a little better, and carve the niche for itself that its age alone tells one it deserves.

Last night's performance gave the musically hungry, of which the reviewer is one, a real treat; it just missed rising to heights. It had a splendid audience, and it deserves one. In the spring concert, here's hoping this word of encouragement brings those shy musician's lights out from under a bushel of inferiority complexes.

GRETA AND THE GHOST

WHY GRETA, YOU LOOK PALE AS A GHOST!

I CAN'T STAND IT—THESE BIG WASHES ARE MAKING A WRECK OF ME.

SILLY! DON'T YOU KNOW THERE'S A WONDERFUL NEW "NO-SCRUB" SOAP CALLED OXYDOL?

10 MINUTES LATER

I CAN'T USE THOSE "NO-SCRUB" GRANULATED SOAPS—I TRIED ONE ONCE AND IT ALMOST RUINED MY HANDS.

BUT OXYDOL'S A NEW KIND THE IVORY SOAP PEOPLE MAKE. IT'S SAFE AS CAN BE—YET IT SOAKS OUT DIRT IN 15 MINUTES.

AND YOU SAY IT GETS CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER, TOO?

ABSOLUTELY! AND IT WON'T FADE ANY WASHABLE COLOR—OR HURT YOUR HANDS.

MY WIFE SAYS IT'S ALMOST A MIRACLE HOW SUCH A SAFE SOAP CAN SOAK OUT DIRT SO FAST.

LATER

LOOK! THESE PILLOW SLIPS ARE LOVELY WHITE—AND ONLY 15 MINUTES SOAKING.

I USE OXYDOL IN MY WASHER—AND IT ALMOST CUTS WASHING TIME IN HALF—IT WORKS SO FAST.

IT'S TRUE! AT LAST A "NO-SCRUB" SOAP

That's Safe As Can Be For Colors, Hands!

Developed at the cost of $1,000,000 by the makers of gentle Ivory Soap

It's here! A new-type laundry soap that soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter . . . yet safe for colors and hands! Oxydol was developed by the Ivory soap people, at the cost of $1,000,000! It brings you at last a "no-scrub, no-boil" soap that leaves your hands soft and white, that will not fade any washable color.

Combining speed and safety in a way no single soap has done before, Oxydol does these 4 amazing things:

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . no scrubbing, no boiling. Even the "tough" spots come snowy with a gentle rub between the fingers.

(2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (4) Yet so safe that even sheer cotton prints washed 100 consecutive times in Oxydol suds, showed no perceptible signs of fading.

The news of Oxydol is spreading like wildfire! Women in all parts of the country are discarding former favorites and adopting it. To save time and drudgery on washday—to protect their hands from the ravages of harsh soaps! Oxydol is more economical, too. Tests show that it will go 1/3 to 1/2 again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. One package often gives twice the suds—does twice the work—lasts twice as long as less modern soaps. Get Oxydol from your dealer today.

Parents Shock Easily at Antics of Neighbor Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

I never hear a mother complain about the bad children of the neighborhood, who influence hers to no good, without thinking about the young teacher, substituting for an experienced and able teacher who was ill. Shortly after she had taken charge of the room she came to my office. "Will you please come upstairs and make these children behave? If you make them behave I can teach them, but I can't teach if they don't behave."

It would have been cruel to have sent her back with the cold statement that the other teacher could make them behave and teach them at the same time. Only time and experience would bring that understanding which would enable her to teach so that the children had no other thought than to learn.

Many a young mother says, "I can bring up my child perfectly. He is clean and obedient and good as gold until he gets with the neighbor's child, and then he is just as awful as he is. I can't keep him in all the time. What am I to do?" It is the old cry: Make them behave and I can do my work.

The fact is that each child is a neighbor's child. Each mother can make her child behave like a paragon when she is alone with him. Just as soon as he gets with the other children he reverts to type. He is what he truly is, a jolly little savage without manners or morals. He loves the earth, water and sky, is part of them. He shouts and jumps and rolls over in the mud, lays about him with right good will when occasion rises, and puts up a sturdy fight when his mother calls him home where she can keep an eye on him. Where he can be safe from the influence of that child next door. The other mothers feel the same way.

It would be too bad if a child had to grow in the artificial atmosphere of the protected, grown-up home. That is not his environment. He belongs outdoors, playing hard with his own kind, learning to take as well as to give, getting rid of outworn growth in crude gestures and with loud noises. He needs these earthy contacts. He needs these associations with his own lot of wildlings. No harm will come of it, only good. As long as a child is in good health, has a good home, intelligent training, he will grow in the right way.

Righteousness is not the peculiar possession of any one neighbor. It is a quality possessed to some degree by every decent human being. The expressions of it vary, but the fundamentals stick. The mother down the street, the one next door, believe they have right on their side and act on it. They are as earnest about rearing their children as any other mother. There are neighbors, not just a neighbor. Every family counts, and few are so bad that will injure others.

It is natural for us all to have certain pet ideas. Sometimes we elevate them to a religion. It is then that we are shocked by the behavior of the neighbor's children. It differs so from our own ideas that it must be wrong. Usually it is only different. In any case, it must be accepted as a condition in which the child finds himself and to which he must adjust himself. Living with other people on the basis of common acceptance of each other's peculiarities is the essence of all living. Sterilized life is impossible on this earth. It would be folly to equip a child for anything but the earthy existence he is to lead. We too, are neighbors, to other folk.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

When Flood Waters Rise

IV—A JOHNSTOWN ADVENTURE

Seventy-five miles to the east of Pittsburgh is the city of Johnstown, in a deep valley amid the Allegheny mountains. By the 1930 census it had a population of nearly 67,000.

It didn't hit Pittsburgh until the next day, but in Johnstown it struck the night I left, and it struck hard.

"Frankly I'll admit I was afraid to ride on that train. It was nothing but a locomotive, a day coach, and a baggage car with a large rowboat in it for telephone company relief work. As we came toward Johnstown, we ran through water which covered the tracks. One track, beside the one we were on, had been washed away. In the darkness outside, the Conemaugh river was flowing swiftly.

"At 3 o'clock we were forced to stop by a train ahead. At daylight we crept over the last seven miles to Johnstown. From the train window, I watched wreckage floating down the river—oil drums, chairs, beams and other odds and ends.

"Reaching the city, I found water flowing over the street, but started wading about at once so I could get pictures. The cold water reached nearly to my waist, but I wore hip-boots. The current was so strong I could hardly stand up in it, so I joined two men aboard a metal boat. We had gone hardly 50 feet before the current swept the boat against a telephone pole, and we were overturned.

In our column tomorrow, I shall give the rest of this letter. It tells a story of danger and adventure during the 1936 flood.

All went well, so far as floods were concerned, until last year, when Johnstown was one of several cities flooded during the month of March. A Pittsburgh newspaper photographer sent me a letter, at that time, and from it I quote these paragraphs:

"Last Tuesday night, after a long, hard day of work 50 miles out of town, I was sent on a special train to Johnstown where the flood Street scene in Last Johnstown flood.

Joseph Johns, a settler from Switzerland, is honored as the founder of the city. He laid out the town in the year 1800. From a tiny village Johnstown grew in a city. Then came 1839, and a flood. On the last day of May of that year, the bursting of a dam 12 miles distant set loose a great flood of water from a reservoir. The water flowed from high ground down into the valley, and before the day was over Johnstown was in ruins. More than 2,200 persons lost their lives in the flood.

After the flood, Johnstown started the work of rebuilding. Millions of dollars were spent to repair the damage. The city grew again, and factories were busy turning out goods.

Only Expert Should Give Permanent

BY ELSIE PIERCE

WHILE there is nothing quite so satisfying and definitely corrective as salon treatments, if a woman cannot afford the luxury of a salon facial she can give herself the nearest thing to it at home; or a scalp treatment, or shampoo or manicure.

There are, however, certain treatments or services that I feel belong to the province of the expert and to the expert alone. One of these is hair dressing. Another is permanent waving. Now I know that a good deal of dye is sold for home use and there may be any number of women who have developed the knack of touching up their own hair at home. Nevertheless I still feel that as a general rule the salon treatments are infinitely more professional and certain of result.

Another such service is the permanent wave. Someone might get the idea to package pads and solution for home use. There is, in fact, a package on the market. It consists of solution and a package of curlers — running through the curler is a metal thread. The contact of the chemical and the metal causes a chemical action which produces the heat. This is very slow and gradual and takes the eight full hours to produce some sort of wave. Directions call for the process at bedtime, the idea being that the wave is put in while you sleep.

Contrast this with the most modern, up-to-date methods as practiced in beauty parlors — both the machine and machineless permanents. First, the methods are worked out by organizations with a reputation, groups of men and women who have been in the field for years and perfected permanent waving processes. Then there's a thoroughly trained expert to follow through and give the wave. This expert knows hair textures, knows the type of solution the particular type of hair requires; knows the amount of heating time that will produce a wave without oversteaming or overbaking the hair. Yet for all her knowledge and experience, the permanent waving operator in the finer shops will not take the chance of proceeding with the entire head without taking a few "test" curls first. These may be moistened with different solutions, or given varying degrees of heat. It's all pretty professional, and precise. Note the assurance with which a good permanent waving expert winds the hair, how carefully she regulates the heating apparatus, how closely she watches the hair while steaming. I feel, sincerely, that come what may, the permanent will remain a field for the expert only.

small club to dummy's queen. I then laid down the heart ace, followed with a small heart. East played low, and I ruffed. A diamond was led to dummy's queen and East was "squeezed." A spade would set up the spade suit and a heart discard would blank the heart king. Actually he discarded a spade and another heart was led from dummy. When the king did not drop I ruffed with the last trump and was tickled silly to gobble up the rest of the tricks with spades.

"Yours very truly,"

"MILTON UNGER."

Obviously Mr. Unger stole this doubled contract right from under his opponents' noses, and since larceny at contract is an art rather than a crime he is to be warmly congratulated.

It is interesting to note that East's opening bid was responsible in a large measure for his eventual downfall. I always have raved and ranted against major suit opening bids on such horrible suits as a 10-9-7-4, and what happened to East constitutes one of my chief reasons. To have partner lead to such a suit as a 10-9-7-4 times is something that gives me the horrors. What possible objection could East have had to an opening club bid? As to the subsequent play of the hand East

ITS ACCENT IS PLACED ON YOUTH

BY ANNE ADAMS

Slim-lines, versatility, and youthfulness are only three of the smart features that Anne Adams has put into Pattern 4334! Simplicity and easy making are some of the others, for this becoming frock is so simple to cut and fit together, that you'll have it completed before you know it! Matrons will welcome the flattering buttoned-front, and like the low V-neckline and unusual cape-collared that makes forearms seem wonderfully slender, and hips narrow by contrast! You've made choice of fabrics for this charming style, that's perfect for all Spring occasions: linen, novelty synthetic, sheer silk, or cotton.

Pattern 4334 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Don't Let Puppy Love Rush You Into Marriage

BY DOROTHY DIX

A boy and girl in their teens, suffering from an acute attack of calf love, ask me if I can give them any good reason why they should not marry now instead of waiting until they are decrepit old people of 22 or 23.

Well, there are about a million good reasons why premature marriage adds extra hazards to the biggest gamble in life. A few reasons why boys and girls should not pick out their mates before they have enough judgment to buy their own hats are these:

They are immature. They have not come to themselves and do not know what they are going to be when they are grown, nor what kind of wives and husbands they will want when they are mature. Their tastes are changing as they develop and the "fella" and "sweetie" they are crazy about one day bores them to tears the next. Generally speaking, at 23 men and women have as completely lost their tastes for the husbands and wives they picked out at 19 and 20 as they have for all-day suckers.

In selecting those with whom they expect to spend the next thirty or forty years they are guided solely by their childish fancies and pay no attention to the individual's character or intelligence or ability to fit into his scheme of life. A boy marries a girl because of the way her hair curls on her forehead. A girl marries a boy because he is a good dancer. And then when a husband finds out that it is his wife's head that counts and not the outside upholstery, and when the woman discovers that marriage is no dancing matter for wives and mothers, another marriage goes blooey.

It takes the discipline of life to fit men and women for marriage and adolescent boys and girls have not had this. They have not learned from experience how to get along with people, as the phrase goes. They have not learned self-control. They lack tact and diplomacy. They have not acquired the fine art of side-stepping the little peculiarities of those with whom they must live instead of barking their shins on them. They have no philosophy with which to meet the inevitable trials and tribulations of marriage. And so they quarrel and fight over trifles that older people could handle without friction.

There is not one word of truth in the old myth about a boy and girl who marry growing up together into a sort of super-congeniality. Occasionally it does happen, but when it does it is pure luck. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they grow away from each other instead of to each other because the development of no two human beings follows the same lines.

Look at all the unequally mated couples among you: the cultured, elegant women with dull, stupid husbands; the brilliant men with morose wives. Think of all the husbands and wives for that matter who have not a single taste or idea in common. These are the tragedies of early marriages in nearly every case.

Boys and girls who marry before they have any way of supporting a family take a dishonorable advantage of their parents. Most fathers and mothers work hard and make many sacrifices in order to educate their children and give them good clothes and luxuries, and they look forward to the time when their youngsters are on their own feet to being able to take things easier and spend some of their

Readers Contribute to Culbertson's Column

(Copyright 1937, By Ely Culbertson)

My mail bag during the last week has produced some particularly gratifying contributions. Laziness does not happen to be one of my vices and, therefore, my appreciation for the interesting hands sent me from hither and yon is not based on the fact that they make this column easier to prepare. It is simply that I feel that hands which these correspondents thought interesting enough to report will be similarly interesting to readers. Today's hand comes from Boston, where some of the finest contract in the country is played.

Police Wagon Halts Dog's Sit-Down Strike

Bowling Green, O.—(AP)—Police got a lesson in stubbornness when a bulldog engaged in a sit-down strike in the middle of the main street here. For no reason at all, the dog sat in the street, creating an ever-growing traffic jam, and refused to budge.

After all blandishments failed and nearly an hour had gone by, Patrolman Tom Vail got out the patrol wagon and hoisted the dog bodily into it.

CROCHETED LUXURY AT BUDGET COST

CROCHETED SQUARE, PATTERN 1420

Your bedroom will be the "show room" of your home, once you've crocheted this handsome spread that's a joy to behold! Companion filet squares of delicate rose design (in a simple "repeat" pattern that's easily learned), combine together to form it. Or make a scarf or table cloth. It's inexpensive and smart in string! Pattern 1420 contains directions and charts for making the 10 inch squares shown and joining them to make a variety of articles; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements.

money upon themselves. But if Bob marries before he has a job, and Mamie comes home with a lad, who has never earned a dollar in his life, to be supported, it simply means that father and mother have to work harder than they ever have before and bend their backs to a heavier burden.

Children know that their parents will not let them starve and they bank on this to wish their puppy love husbands and wives upon them. Which is as scurvy a trick as any girl and boy can play upon the Old Man and Mom.

Being married works no miracle that changes the nature of youth and turns a young boy and girl into a sober, settled, middle-aged person. The young married boys and girls want to play around; they want to go to parties, dances, have pretty clothes, to be free, just as the unmarried girls and boys do. When they can't do this; when the girl is tied down by babies and worn out with having to do her own housework and when she is shabby and can't even have her hair done, and when the boy is harrassed with bills that he cannot pay and burdened with cares, they wonder what made them do it.

Lastly, statistics show the earlier the marriage, the quicker the divorce. So, boys and girls, put off the wedding until you are old enough to know what you are doing and can shoulder your own responsibilities.

ABC'S IN MANNER

(This column is being printed one day each week at the request of many teachers and their classes.)

1. My mother is young, which probably accounts for her disliking my letting her go to parties when we are alone together. She says that it is right for my brother and father, but that when a young girl stands aside for her she feels old. What do you think?

Answer: I am sure your mother does not really want other people to criticize your bad manners, which is exactly what she will have to expect if she insists you do what every one else considers rude.

2. We boys feel that it is plain nonsense to make us take off our caps and hats as soon as we enter the front door of our huge school building. Lots of times it is damn inconvenient to manipulate this maneuver with an armful of books and perhaps a squash racket besides. Our mothers have suggested that perhaps you will print something in our behalf. For instance, we would like to know why a public school corridor is any different from that of any public building?

Answer: You are quite right; there is no difference. In school corridors a boy wears his cap or hat anywhere between the front door and the locker room, except when stopping to talk with a teacher or a girl. In this case he takes his hat off just as he would when he stopped to talk to them on the street. In all other rooms in school, he does not wear outside clothes.

3. My manners are all right in this small town because so little happens that it isn't necessary to know very many of the answers. For the first time I am going to visit relatives in New York. Will you tell me some of the important rules to know?

Answer: This question you ask has just taken me seven hundred thousand words to answer in a new book. However, rules are the same everywhere. If you have good manners in your own little town at home, they are not likely to be found lacking in New York.

4. What is the proper hand on which to wear a school ring?

Answer: So far as I know one hand is no more proper than the other unless there is some school precedent, which I have no way of knowing.

Neglected Neglecta Has Found a Home

Philadelphia—(AP)—For 49 years a little lizard, about the size of a lead pencil has been waiting for recognition at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

It came from South America in 1887 with a shipment of other little lizards. The others were sorted and classified, but no one noticed anything unusual about little Neglecta.

Then Dr. Emmett Reid Dunn, research associate, and Jean Platt took a closer look. Sure enough, Neglecta—for that was what they chose as an appropriate name—was a new species.

Kansas completed the most extensive highway construction program in the history of the state in 1936. Contracts were let for 1,879 miles of roadway and 150 bridges at a total cost of $17,880,719.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

That Better 'Ole

The next Senator what hears Mr. Roosevelt say "Find me a better 'ole" might remind him that the poor devil of B'n'r's father's famous cartoon got into their hole because they could not help it, but that Mr. Roosevelt went out into no-man's land because he did not look where he was going. He is, however, describing his position correctly. He is in a hole on a no-man's land where no other President has ever been before.

He got there by losing touch with his own followers and imagining he could rout all opposition forever by exploding one big bomb all by himself. The effect of the explosion has been to reveal to an astonished world the deep divisions in his own following. It has disclosed the sharp difference between the seasoned progressives and the old line Democrats on the one hand and Mr. Roosevelt's personal faction on the other.

LaFollette Only Progressive Who Is In Favor Of Plan

With the exception of Senator LaFollette, the recognized leaders of American progressivism are opposed to his scheme. As for the old line Democrats, their position of those who feel compelled to support it is pitiable. Senator Ashurst, has had to take a most spectacular beating after being confronted with his indignant denial that Mr. Roosevelt intended to pack the court. But the position of a man like Senator Robinson is really worse. Six months ago he would have been speechless with rage if any one had told him he was going to be re-membered in American history as the man who tried to push through the Senate a measure to drive six justices, including the Chief Justice of the United States, off the Supreme Court bench. And can any one who knows Senator Pat Harrison or Senator Byrnes or Senator Key Pittman imagine them participating in this coup, except under the direct compulsion of party regularity? Why, even General Johnson, who was the first to acclaim it as masterly, has now seen what it is all about and has been writing reminiscences about the dangers of being too smart.

See Difference Between 2 Types of Progressivism

Much the most significant thing that has come to light is the deep difference between normal progressivism and Mr. Roosevelt's emergency progressivism. The objects are much the same, indeed there are only a few items in the New Deal program that any man of liberal temper and progressive purposes does not approve. There is no quarrel, and never has been any, among liberals and progressives about the essential principles and professed purposes of the monetary and banking policy, the agricultural program for the emergency, the conservation program, the attack on farm tenancy, the slum clearance, collective bargaining, pump priming, public work rather than the cash dole, social security, the regulation of the capital market, the regulation of public utilities, the experiment of TVA, or even on the application of NRA principles to demoralized industries like coal mining. There have been differences about ways and means, about the

Rotarians Plan for 13th District Meet At Beloit in May

A large delegation from the Appleton Rotary club is planning to attend the thirteenth Rotary district conference May 4 at Beloit. Members from clubs in 35 Wisconsin cities will attend.

A committee of 75 men from the Beloit club under the direction of C. F. Karstaedt, former governor of the thirteenth district, is arranging for the affair which is expected to attract 1,000 persons.

Tentative plans call for business sessions, tours of Beloit college and city industrial plants, five luncheon meetings, special entertainment and activities for wives of visiting Rotarians, conference banquet and addresses by several persons.

Continue Hearings on State Code Compliance

Hearings on compliance with state fair trade practice regulations were continued at the courthouse today under the direction of Claude A. Downes, Madison, deputy trade practice commissioner. Painters, paper hangers and decorators showed their records Thursday and this morning while hearings for building contractors began this afternoon.

Story Hour Planned At Library Saturday

Another of a series of weekly story hours will be conducted from 10 to 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the children's department of the Appleton Public library, according to Miss Jeanette Clausen, department head. Animal and spring stories will be related. About 45 children attended the story hour held last week.

When He Challenged the Instinctive Conviction of the American People He Was Broken and Within Two Years His Party Was in Ruins and His Cause Repudiated

If Mr. Roosevelt really understands the American people, this is the critical moment in his career to make use of his knowledge. His job is to retreat as gracefully as he can, for the sooner he gets out of the hole he has dugged for himself the better for him and his party and his cause.

Committee Seeks Prices on County Asylum Addition

Expect Construction Work To Begin Early in Spring

Bids on the 3-story addition to be constructed for the Outagamie county asylum this year will be received by the special asylum building committee March 15, it was announced today. Supervisor John Bottensek, Daic, is chairman of the committee.

A $75,000 bond issue to finance construction of the addition was voted by the county board at its November session, and passed again at the February meeting to meet legal requirements.

Construction will be started as soon as possible in the spring, and the addition probably will be completed sometime next fall.

Raymond N. LeVee, architect, has completed plans for the structure which will house a hospital section and materially increase the capacity of the institution. One serious problem at the asylum will be solved by the provision of additional dining room space.

First Unit of Series

The new building will be the first unit of a series that will eventually replace the present buildings and will be so situated and planned that the other four units can be built at any time in the future.

The exterior will be of Lannon stone construction. The structure will be placed in the exact center of present buildings, extending toward the south 91 feet from the present wall of the dining room.

The first floor will consist of a visitors' room, conference room, private office, a large dining room

Pupils Construct Pleasure Launch In Kindergarten

Riding the crest of the waves has become a popular sport for kindergarten pupils at Washington Grade school since they completed building a pleasure launch. Tickets sold at regular stations, captains peering over the distant seas and passengers seasick are a regular part of the play.

A map of the Fox river tracing a route from Shawano to Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Milwaukee and Chicago has been completed and pupils constantly travel along this route.

Room for eight passengers on each trip has been provided and this lack of space necessitates short rides so that all pupils may participate in the fun. Pupils alternate in acting the part of captains and helmsmen. Each ride costs a nickel, but students have solved the money problem by printing their own tokens and exchanging them for a position in the excursion boat.

Pictures of other boats including man-of-war vessels, destroyers, schooners, fishing tubs and submarines have been completed by the pupils and are now exhibited on the side walls. The study of navigation is included in all the kindergarten work.

for the patients and two smaller dining alcoves.

Additional Wards

The second floor will contain the hospital section with fully equipped offices for doctor, dentist and nurse and a small operating room, and living quarters for the asylum superintendent and family. On the third floor will be quarters for employees and additional hospital wards. The ground floor will consist of a large recreation room and a large occupational therapy room.

Construction of the building will be fireproof with reinforced concrete floors, clay tile and glass brick interior partitions.

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

RIVER BIRCH

The river birch is found in the southwestern part of the state, extending up the Wisconsin River to Stevens Point and up the Mississippi to Lake Pepin and grows only on deep, rich soils, along the borders of lakes and streams, which are sometimes inundated for weeks at a time.

In Wisconsin it is usually 40 to 60 feet high, often forking at 20 in Wisconsin, as it is a southern species and does not reach its best development here. It is attractive as an ornamental tree along lakes and streams and will doubtless remain a characteristic tree of the broad bottom lands along the Wisconsin and Mississippi rivers.

Applications for CCC Camps Taken

Next Enrolment From County Will Leave Early in April

Applications for the next CCC enrolment from Outagamie county are being received by Miss Madlyn Newell, certification supervisor of the state public welfare department. It is expected the next enrolment will be taken early in April.

Only youths of families on relief are eligible for entry in the CCC camps. Announcement of the camps in the state to which the youths go is not announced until the day of departure.

Expending 27,960 man-days on field work projects during the last year, workers of Co. 1692, Perkins town, have made a virtual network of roads and trails in the surrounding area. They constructed five miles of road, reconstructed a similar number and cleaned up about six miles of roadside. More than seven miles of road were graded. In addition they improved 540 acres of timber and planted and scalped 550 acres of wooded area.

The trunk diameter of one to two feet. The leaves are 2 to 3 inches long with double-toothed edges. The fruit is characteristic of the birches, the seeds ripen in May or June.

The bark provides a ready means of identification, varying from cinnamon to red-brown, and peeling back in tough papery layers. These persist, presenting a very ragged appearance. On the older trunk the bark becomes thick, deeply furrowed and reddish brown.

The wood is light, rather hard, strong, close-grained, light brown with thick pale sapwood. Not used except for fuel and other local uses

Agent Arranges Farm Meeting on Barley Problems

State Authorities to Address County Session At Little Chute

A farm meeting on barley production, particularly the requirements for high quality malting material, will be held at St. John's auditorium, Little Chute, March 3, R. C. Swanson, county agent, announced today.

Similar sessions at Greenville in 1935 and at Black Creek last year were among the best attended meetings sponsored by the county agent's office.

R. E. Vaughan, plant pathologist; George Briggs, crop specialist; W. P. Carroll, of the federal grain division; Leon Robbins, railroad representative, and a local maltster are expected to appear on the program.

Subjects to be discussed at the meeting will include varieties of barley, how to distinguish barley diseases; the maltsters' interests and why he is particular; grading barley at the terminal markets; harvesting, threshing and cleaning barley; opportunities for community cooperation in barley development.

During the past years more than one hundred samples of barley have been analyzed for the farmers attending the meeting. This is a free service and every farmer is invited to bring a sample of seed which he intends to plant in 1937. In this analysis the specialists will show the farmers the diseased kernels and will explain to them the points which the maltster will criticize in buying the barley for malting purposes. In 1936 many samples of barley intended for seed were discarded after analysis were made.

Your Income Tax

DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCES

The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913. If acquired by purchase prior to that date, the basis is the cost of the property, less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the value on March 1, 1913, whichever is greater.

The proper allowance for depreciation is that amount which should be set aside with a reasonably consistent plan (not necessarily a uniform rate), whereby the aggregate amount so set aside, plus the salvage value, will at the end of the useful life of the property equal the cost or other basis of the property.

The depreciation rate of a building is not based upon the number of years it will stand before being condemned and razed, but on the number of years it will remain habitable or serviceable for the purpose for which constructed.

If the taxpayer builds a new building, the period over which depreciation may be claimed begins at the time the building is completed and capable of being used. Buildings under construction are not subject to a depreciation allowance.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation. No deduction for obsolescence is permitted because, in the opinion of the taxpayer, the property may become obsolete at some future date.

Criminal convictions in the Philippine Commonwealth dropped to 11 per 10,000 population in 1935, the lowest percentage in 32 years.

EATS STEAK WITH FALSE TEETH

Indigestion? Bad stomach? Many doctors say, "Tender meats are easier to digest." Here's news! Even folks with false teeth can now eat and digest all meats. Juice of the Papaya Fruit makes meats tender and digestible. Just sprinkle on this tasteless Papaya essence — TEEN — before cooking. Presto! Meat comes to table so tender you can cut it with a fork. Post-Crescent Planning for Fishermen's Party

April 27 Picked
As Date; Will Be Held at ArmoryMore Than 100 Prizes to be Offered the 1,000
Persons Who are Expected to Attend; Bert
Clafin Among Those on Speaking Program

BY H. K. DERUS

Attention Fishermen—
Reserve Tuesday evening, April 27, for the biggest gala event ever planned for fishermen of this region. The Appleton Post-Crescent on that evening will sponsor its first annual Fishermen's Party at the armory in Appleton with an elaborate program . . . and it all will be devoted to those who love fishing, one of the most popular sports in this area.

Already plans for the event are well under way. The 1,000 lucky fishermen, both men and women, who secure tickets for the event will hear a 25-piece orchestra; they will hear an address by Bert Clafin, Post-Crescent Outdoors Editor; and another address by a nationally known sportsman; they will see a demonstration of magic by Dr. Raymond C. Finkle of Seymour; they will hear an especially written comic sketch presented by a group of Appleton players who now are at work on the number; and they will see two reels of motion pictures on fishing that will awaken every latent feeling they ever had for the sport.

Plan Many Prizes

And this is only one portion of the evening's gala program. Immediately after the program there will be a distribution of more than 100 prizes. . . each and every one of which will be something that is used by fishermen. The list of prizes, which will be donated by Appleton business firms as well as by many firms outside of Appleton, will be announced later.

The Appleton Boat club defeated the Moose in three games in Happy-Go-Lucky league games Wednesday night on the Eagles alleys.

Brook topped a 251 game and 607 series to lead the Boat club bowlers.

While Sealy tipped a 187 game and 538 series for the Moose squad.

Cracking a 225 game and 590 series, Kroiss led the Atlas Mill bowlers to a double win over the Eagles Jensen had a 204 game and 542 series to lead the Eagles scoring.

A survey of the armory reveals that it will be possible to seat comfortably 1,000 persons and so the managers of the Fishermen's party have decided to print just that many tickets and when they are sold there will be no more. Tickets are to be placed on sale two weeks in advance of the party and when 1,000 are sold the sale will also close. If 1,000 tickets are sold in advance then there will be no Turn to Page 14

Seymour High Wins Little Nine Cage Crown

Defeats Denmark
In Second Game
Of Title SeriesScore Is 21 to 17; Victors
Hold Lead Throughout Contest

DENMARK — Seymour High school basketball team won the Little Nine conference championship here last night when it defeated Denmark, 21 to 17, in the second game of the title series. Last Monday night Seymour copped an 18 to 13 victory.

The championship was the first for Seymour in the four years that it has won the Western division title. Denmark was representing the Eastern division of the circuit. Seymour has won 34 scheduled conference games in the last four years and lost only two. The Seymour coach is Paul Loftus.

Seymour opened last night's contest with a 6 to 3 lead and then saw Denmark come from behind and tie the count at 10-all at the half. In the third period Seymour again moved to the front and held an 18 to 14 edge when the cagers rested. In the final quarter the teams each got three points.

Seymour controlled the ball most of the evening but again showed badly at the free throw mark making one toss in seven tries. Denmark made seven tosses in eleven tries. Both teams played good ball with Denmark threatening only in the second period when Gigot broke through the Seymour defense and cracked a basket and then Schleis, a substitute, repeated the stunt twice. Seymour then patched up the hole and was never threatened thereafter.

In the preliminary game Seymour seconds suffered an 18 to 15 defeat.

Seymour now will compete in the Kimberly district Class C tournament which opens next week.

SEYMOUR CAGERS FINALLY ANNEX LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE TITLE

For the first time in the four years it has been divisional basketball champion in the Little Nine conference, Seymour High school has copped the conference championship. The squad shown above accomplished the trick last night when it went to Denmark and administered a 21 to 17 beating to the Eastern division titlist, for the second and deciding game of the series. Seymour won the first game on its own court by an 18 to 14 count. Its victory makes the Seymour squad favorite in the Class C district tournament which opens at Kimberly next week. Members of the squad in the picture are: Seated—left to right, Engel Kunstman, Zatches, Captain Huettli, Foote, Talbot and Ohlrogge; standing, in the same direction, Jensen, Runge, manager, La Marche, Van Vuren, Veitch, Steward and Bauman. Vikings Prepare For Cornell "5"Point for Victory Over
Iowans Here Saturday Evening

Lawrence college basketball team will attempt to move closer to the 500 mark in Midwest conference basketball competition when it clashes with Cornell college five here Saturday night. The Mt. Vernon, Ia., team is on a road trip into Wisconsin and plays Ripon at Ripon tonight.

Coach Arthur Denney was highly pleased over his team's showing against Ripon Tuesday night and has decided that he'll start Junior Kapp at center against Cornell.

Kapp's ability to get the ball on top-offs and around the bounding board meant a lot to the Vikes and Denney was quick to realize that he can forget a few defensive weaknesses if he can control the ball.

Denney also was pleased with Cliff Burton's work against the Crimson pointing out that when the game opened up and Burton got his opportunities he made use of them in short order.

The Vikes rested Wednesday afternoon but went back to work last night and will taper off this evening.

KNOX STOPS BELOIT
Beloit —P— Knox won a close Midwest conference basketball game from Beloit last night, 27 to 23. Beloit, playing its last home game of the season, trailed throughout.

Knox led at the half, 16 to 13. Beloit missed 13 out of 22 free throws. Clemmer starred for Knox and Saecker for the losers.

J Brown topped a 192 game and 512 series to lead the No 5 bowlers to a double win over No. 1 team in Post Office league games last night on the Elks alleys. A Kahler's 434 series and R Short's 157 game were high No. 1 scores.

Tipping a 212 game and 568 series, W. Horn led No. 4 bowlers to a double win over the No. 2 squad. The No. 2 scoring was topped by H. Brinkman with a 212 game and 576 total.

E. Campshire shot a 124 game and 503 series as No. 3 defeated No. 6 bowlers in two games. S. Balliet's 449 total and S. Hart's 156 game were high No. 6 counts.

ANNOUNCE HANDBALL MEET
Milwaukee —P— The Wisconsin State A. A. U. announced yesterday its singles and doubles handball championship tournaments will be held here March 11-13 and March 18-20 respectively.

Members of the Renaissance team are players in the Older Boys league at the Y.M.C.A., while the Town Taxi squad is composed of former Lawrence college players. The Kimberly Club team was runner-up in the Kimberly amateur tournament, losing to Ponds last night by a 2-point margin.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S GAMES
Sheboygan at Green Bay East
Appleton at Oshkosh
Manitowish at Fond du Lac

APPLETON High school basketball team, running in second place in the Fox River Valley conference race as result of a defeat at Manitowish last week, will invade Oshkosh Friday night in a game that probably will mean the end of championship hopes for the loser.

Several weeks ago the teams clashed at Appleton with the Terrors winning without any trouble. Since then, however, the Indians have been bowling along with Virgil Batterman, big center, setting a fast pace to lead all conference scorers. Oshkosh also will have the home floor advantage Friday night but the crowd probably will be fairly evenly divided for a large delegation of Appleton fans is planning to follow the Terrors.

Appleton's defeat at Manitowish last week probably can be attributed to two things, going into the game without any drive and in failure to get control of the ball. Against Oshkosh the Terrors again will be handicapped by lack of height and will have to make up the difference by fight.

Chairs at East

The other feature attraction will be the Sheboygan-Green Bay East game at Green Bay. The Red Devils always are a tough team on their own floor but whether they still have enough interest in the race to give the Chairs a battle is a question. Sheboygan won a close one last week at Sheboygan, 31 to 30, with Green Bay West the loser. All of which indicates that anything is possible against Green Bay East, especially if Simon is hitting long shots as he did against Appleton.

In the other game Manitowish will go to Fond du Lac and should score a victory to add to the list compiled on Manty's home floor. The lake shore team hasn't dropped a home game, it is said.

Appleton high school's scoring figures reveal that Ken Slattery is the top scorer with 88 points, many of which came at the free throw mark. Barney Meyers is second highest with 55 but ranks first in baskets scored. His free throw mark is rather bad, both on chances and shots made.

Earl McKeeffey has compiled the most fouls, 38, with Slattery next and Bowers third. Jack Sellers, for a regular guard, is the easiest on his opponents and has been called for only 12 miscues.

The scoring figures follow:

G.	FT.	FTM.	Pct.	F.	Tpts.
Slattery, G. I.	25	36	11	775	30

TRIANGLES and the Cardinals continued to pace the American division of the Older Boy league last night in games played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and retained their undefeated positions in standings. Triangles downed the Buckeyes, 27 to 20, while the Cardinals trounced the Eagles, 27 to 20. In the other games the Vagabonds downed the Post Hi-Y team, 18 to 11.

The first half of the Triangle-Buckeye game was close with the Buckeyes holding a 7 to 6 lead at the quarter. The teams then scored six points each in the second quarter and the half ended with the Bucks still one point to the good.

POND SPORT CAGERS WIN KIMBERLY AMATEUR TOURNAMENT

Piling up a big lead in the third quarter of the title game of the Kimberly amateur tournament last night, Pond Sport Shop cagers, shown above, protected their lead in the final quarter to defeat the Kimberly Club squad, 43 to 41. The Pond team has lost only four games this season, dropping two games to Bertrands of Green Bay by 2-point margins. Their loss to Bertrands here was the only defeat on their own floor. KIMBERLY CAGE TOURNEY
LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
Ponds 43, Kimberly Club 41 (H-tie).

Lutz Ice 30, Johnson Service 24 (3rd place).

KIMBERLY—Pond Sports, Appleton, won the Kimberly Amateur basketball tournament championship at the clubhouse Thursday evening by defeating the Kimberly Club, 43 to 41. The Ponds were awarded second place and Lutz Ice, third, after a 30 to 24 win over Johnson Service Station, Appleton.

In the championship game both teams started fast. Bowman scored a bucket and two free throws while Joe Gossens made two baskets and Chub Vander Velden a free throw giving Kimberly a 2-point lead at the quarter, 9 to 7. Pond points were free throws.

In the second quarter the teams scored heavily and the count was 17-11 at the half. During that quarter the Gossens brothers dropped three buckets and Chub Vander Velden and Bowman made free throws. One of the buckets made by Appleton at that quarter hit a Pond player on the arm and bounced into the hoop. A crowd of Kimberly boys in the balcony caused a technical foul to be called on the home team as they bowed La Marr, one of the officials.

In the third quarter Kimberly trailed while Ponds continued piling up a safe lead. Lillge was "hot" making eight points by dropping four baskets for Appleton. Kimberly's points were two baskets by Hofkins, three free throws by C. Vander Velden and one by Joe Gossens. Ponds were leading at the end of the third quarter 33 to 25.

The all-tournament team picked was Lillge, Ponds, and J. Gossens, Kimberly, forwards, Sven Bowman, Kimberly, center, and E. Vander Velden, Kimberly, and H. Lutz, Lutz Ice, guards. The second team showed P. Wildenberg, Little Chute, and Schmidt, Neenah, forwards; Daniels, Ponds, center; Rule, Johnson Service Station, and Alberts, Kimberly, guards.

AURA Lueders and Florence Gehring of the Metropolitan Cafe took top honors in the weekly matches of the Women's City league at the Arcade alleys last night. Lueders battered the maples for high game of 226 while Gehring rolled high series of 546.

The Cafes hit 2,363 for high team series as they downed the Log Mills in three straight games. M. Miller's 528 count was best for the Loggers. Belling Drugs defeated Johnson Hatters in two. The Drugs hammered out a 960 for high team of the evening. L. Jens paced the Drugs with a 514 and Alfieri hit a 504 count for the Hatters.

Bowling against Scratch, the Kaukauna Club won two games. M. Lueckel showed a 203 game and 518 series.

The Adam Goss Taverns kept their winning stride by tripping Voigt's Drugs in three straight games. The Taverns now lead the league by seven games. H. Glasnap hit a 509 series for the league leaders, and S. Sontag turned in a 487 series for the Drugs.

Oaks Candles won two out of three games from Kresge's with C. Nooyen showing the way with a 485 total. Roesch rolled a 528 series for the losers.

LeRoux rolled a 534 series as Heckert's Shoes turned back the Elite Theaters in two out of three games. Strutz hit a 503 series for the Theaters.

Roosevelt Splits With Wilson Fives

Wins and Loses Ninth Grade Games; Both Go Overtime

After trailing at the half, 14-6, Roosevelt junior high school graders rallied and won a 24-22 decision over Wilson junior high in their basketball game at Roosevelt gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Kleifoth intercepted a pass to score the winning goal.

Powers sank a long goal to tie the score at 22-22 at the end of regular play. After a 2-minute overtime, the score still was tied but in the second extra period, Kleifoth scored the winning points.

In a preliminary game another Wilson ninth grade team won 14-12 in another overtime session. Wilson led at the half by 8-4 and then jumped into a 12-6 lead with only 45 seconds to play. Roosevelt tied the score but was unable to do anything in the overtime.

Seventh grade teams played during the week with Roosevelt squad winning three games by scores of 12-8, 10-8 and 17-1.

Match Bowlers Will Shoot in Quarter Finals Sunday Night

CITY MATCH TOURNAMENT
8:00 Sunday Night
(1) Everett Wegner versus Edwin Herb.
(2) Lu Powers versus Rudy Hoffman.
(3) Leo Grishaber versus John Harvey.
(4) Robert Schmidt, Jr. versus "Hooks" Pankratz.
(5) Bud Stach versus Leo Gehheim.
(6) Robert Deuster, Jr. versus Jack Fries.
(7) Roy Reinke versus Frank Fels.
(8) Larry Zick versus Robert Lesseyoung.

BY THE KING PIN
SIXTEEN of the 64 Appleton bowlers who started in quest of the city match bowling title will clash at 8 o'clock Sunday night at the Arcade alleys in the quarter-final round. From the matches eight keggers will be returned to compete in the semis next week. Upsets have featured the first two rounds of competition and there is plenty of reason to believe that some of the favorites will be ousted again this weekend.

The feature match probably will be Robert Schmidt versus "Hooks" Pankratz. Schmidt has his mind set on the championship and if he comes through this time will be a long way along the road.

Dopesters around the alleys are coming up with the following comments on the matches:
(1) Everett Wegner has the advantage over "Shorty" Herb, but so did Ray Crane and Roy Johnson and Shorty disposed of them in one der.
(2) Two old timers, and still tops in bowling, with the breaks deciding the winner.
(3) Two boys with a 170 average. Nobody thought they would still be in the running. Your guess is as good as mine but we'll say Leo.
(4) Two jockeys meeting, with "Hooks" having a slight advantage on the alleys and R. E. on the side line talking.
(5) Bud Stach is a good bowler, but the way "Doc" Gebheim has been going in the tourney Bud will have to be in form to move up another bracket.
(6) Bob Deuster, Jr. should take Jack Fries. Jack surprised even himself by taking "Bones" Gehring last Sunday night.
(7) Roy Reinke says there will have to be an upset in the tourney Sunday night. Fels will have something to shoot at.
(8) Neither one is saying much for both realize the other is a worthy opponent.

Expect Records Will be Broken In A. A. U. Meet

1,500 Meter Race Again Will Feature Events At New York

NEW YORK—To hear the A. A. U. tell it, there won't be much left of the record books after the track and field army gets to work in the national indoor championships at Madison Square garden tomorrow night.

Looking over as classy a field as the championships ever have had, the A. A. U. came up today with this official announcement: "Five World's records and 11 championship records will be in direct peril from the ever-improving group of American and foreign athletes."

Heading the list in color as well as competition is the so-called indoor "metric mile of the century"—the 1,500 meters—bringing together the world's top middle-distance runners with the lone exception of Jack Lovelock. Gene Venzke dashed in with a world record 3:29 last year and will defend the crown against a field packed with record breaking possibilities.

But the A. A. U. explained that if the boys really get serious, the world's records for the 600 and 1,000 meter relays, as well as the 1,500 will be smashed.

In addition, the fields in various other events, making the championships the climax games of the season, also threaten meet marks at 5,000 meters, 3,000 meters steep-lechase, 1,600 meter relay, 65 meter hurdles, pole vault and shot put.

With Glenn Cunningham, Indiana's Don Lash, Italy's Luigi Beccali and Archie San Roman lining up beside Venzke in the 1,500 meter field, in what amounts to an "olympic games re-run," Venzke's year-old record may be chased right out of existence.

Syracuse Eddie O'Brien, another member of America's Olympic brigade, is back in form, and that spells trouble when he is scheduled to meet 121 O'Brien set last year Dick Gill of Boston college, Al Fitch of Los Angeles and Sam Miller of Indiana are among the opposition.

Plan "New Deal" For Maxie Baer
Consider Fight in England If Pastor Bout Falls Through

NEW YORK—It seemed today Maxie Baer may have been only fooling again when he threatened to sail to England for his fighting, after walking out of a New York State Athletic commission meeting. Madison Square garden's promoter Jimmy Johnston, who wanted the ex-heavyweight king for a bout with Bob Pastor, doesn't want to let him go.

Johnston and Maxie's manager, Anell Hoffman, conferred for several hours last night over what the latter said was a "new deal," details of which he refused to divulge.

Whether it had anything to do with a report published in Detroit, that promoter Jack Kearns had wired Johnston an offer to put on a "Baer-Pastor fight; there, could not be learned.

Max considered himself insulted when New York Athletic Commissioner Bill Brown referred to him as "a couple of bums" at the commission meeting Wednesday. He walked out of the meeting without giving the commission a chance either to refuse or grant his application for a boxing license so the Garden could put on the Baer-Pastor bout.

At that time, Hoffman announced Baer would accept a London offer to meet the winner of the coming Ford-Farr fight during the coronation this spring. Hoffman said last night, however, that if the new "plan" goes through, the Baer-Hoffman entourage would cancel its plans to sail next Wednesday.

Oshkosh Pros Prepping For Fourth Title Game
Oshkosh—The Oshkosh All-Stars, professional basketball team will seek its second win over the New York Renaissance Negro quintet here Saturday night. The All-Stars defeated the Rens a week ago but lost at Madison and Ripon. A fifth game will be played at Green Bay Sunday afternoon.

Contract Club Feted At Dressen Dwelling

Waupaca—Mrs. William Dressen was hostess to the Contract club for luncheon Thursday. Two tables of contract followed, with high honors going to Mrs. William Holden and Consolation to Mrs. I. M. Patterson and Mrs. J. Keller were guests of Mrs. Dressen. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Waldo Hanson Thursday March 4.

The Women's Relief corps had a Washington birthday party at Castle hall Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance. Mrs. Jennie Court, president, led in community singing, which was followed by a piano solo by Mrs. Fred Dahm, and "The Life of Washington" by Mrs. Grace Dunkley. A women's double quartet entertained with its rendition of "Yankee Doodle." Members of the quartet were Mesdames I. A. Olson, H. N. Olson, Will Millius, H. Stedman, R. J. Deuel, Jennie Court, Grace Dunkley and Miss Alice Hart. Mrs. Fred Dahm accompanied them at the piano.

A piano duet, "Listen to the Mocking Bird," was played by Mesdames Fred Dahm and Henry Christensen, accompanied by the harmonica by Mrs. Charles McLean. Mrs. Frank Calkins gave an account of a visit to Mount Vernon, which she illustrated with colored pictures. After another duet by Mesdames Christensen and Dahm on the piano, the group sang "America." Refreshments and a social period closed the afternoon.

Mrs. A. J. Hancock, president of the Seventh district, Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, is in Milwaukee attending the mid-winter board meeting being held at Hotel Pfister from Wednesday to Friday. She was accompanied to Milwaukee by Mrs. Ralph High who is visiting friends in that city. They plan to return Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Sole was hostess to the S. I. B. club at her home Wednesday evening, with two tables of bridge in play. High honors were won by Mrs. Bert Quimby, consolation by Mrs. Lucy Doerfler, and the floating prize went to Miss Caroline Eckardt. Guests of Mrs. Sole were Mrs. A. W. Holmes of Kaukauna who is visiting in the city, and Mrs. Ray Sommers.

agriculture, and George Beaumester, county agent of Shawano was the speaker at the Marion meeting March 11, while Mr. Hayes and R. C. Swanson, county agent of Outagamie county, will be present at the New London meeting March 12. George F. Massey, Waupaca county agent, will be present at each of the meetings.

4-H Club Leaders to Meet at Courthouse
Waupaca—County 4-H leaders will meet Wednesday evening in the courthouse, with W. McNeel, state 4-H leader from the college of agriculture, and Miss Grace Rountree present. They will lead in discussions for the 1937 club year.

Farm institutes are being planned for the week of March 10, 11 and 12 one of which will be at Crystal Lake, town of Dayton, New London and Marion. While the program has not been announced definitely, it is expected that Harry Noble, county agent of Stevens Point, and A. R. Albert, Hancock, director of the Hancock Experiment Station, will be present at Crystal Lake March 10. J. B. Hayes, of the college of

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Count Vronski, who is trying to force Anne Phelps to marry him, is shot to death in her studio apartment shortly before a late party starts. Bigelow, the young American from Paris, finds Anne and Karsnakoff, the stunning dancer, starring at the corpse. They hide it in a cupboard and go on with the party. Later Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, remove the body to Vronski's apartment. Next day, Bigelow and Anne, leaving the Colony after lunch, are told of the murder by friends who were at the party.

Chapter 15

The baroness is suspicious. "I should go home if I were you," said the baroness to Anne slowly. "The police will be wanting to get into communication with you."

"The police—" repeated Bigelow curiously.

"With me?" gasped Anne. "Why."

"Well, you were almost engaged to him, were you not?" asked the baroness.

"Not quite," answered Anne dryly.

"But you were close friends. You were together a great deal. I should think there must be a great many things about his affairs that you can tell them. And he was dining with you only last night. I saw him leave Madge's with you and go to the studio."

"Certainly, but he was alive then," said Bigelow airily.

"Yes, he was alive then," agreed the baroness. "But what happened after that? Why did he arrange the party and then not appear? That seemed odd to me at the time. You remember I remarked on it to you?" She stared at Anne, and Bigelow noticed, now that her eyes looked as if she had been weeping. She had attempted to conceal the effects but without success. He wondered what part Vronski had played in her life. It seemed inconceivable that she could have loved him—she was older. But one never knew.

"He went back to Madge's to pick up some of you," Anne was explaining carefully. "You know how he was when he had been drinking. He couldn't just wait for the party to begin. . . . And then, he telephoned that he wasn't coming back. Whatever happened to him must have happened after that."

The baroness looked off with half-closed eyes as though she was absorbed in some new thought that had just occurred to her. "I noticed at Madge's that he danced only with the Russian woman—never once with you," she said. "You hadn't quarreled with him, had you?"

"No, of course not," answered Anne, impatiently, and rather crossly.

"I can assure you of that I was there, too, you know," put in Bigelow suavely.

"You don't think Anne murdered him, do you?" cried Chet, grinning. "The papers say his apartment was broken into and robbed."

"It would have been easy enough to create that impression," said the baroness slowly. "How would thieves have known he was there? He had only just moved in. How would they have had time to perfect their plans? How would they have known that Louis slept out?"

"No, I don't believe in this theory of casual thieves. Someone killed him who knew his ways—and all about him. There is more in it than appears yet. You'll see I'm right."

She moved off toward the restaurant barely nodding at them and Chet made a grimace behind her back as he followed her.

An Appeal to Karsnakoff

In silence, Bigelow and Anne hailed a taxi and got in. He gave the address of the studio.

"You don't mind dropping me there, do you?" he asked. "I didn't expect the news to be out so quickly. I've no time to waste."

"No," said Anne. "It won't be long before the bloodhounds are on the trail."

"Was she in love with him?"

"I think so. I know she always watched me like a hawk—completely misunderstanding my association with him, of course." Anne frowned out of the window. "Imagine her noticing that I did not dance with him last night—and remembering."

"That fact alone is of no consequence I shouldn't worry," said Bigelow.

"No, that fact alone is of no importance," admitted Anne. "Only she'll make the most of it. And you know how stories grow when people start to talk. She's suspicious—although it's only an instinct in her that tells her things are not quite as they seem. And women of that age take their love affairs seriously. If there's a flaw anywhere in our defense, she'll find it. I'm more afraid of her than of the police."

"We'll see that there is no flaw for her to find, then," said Bigelow. And as the taxi drew up in front of Anne's studio, he looked carefully about as he got out. But they had not been followed.

Anne waved her hand and the taxi took her on. Bigelow let himself into the studio with Anne's key, and locked the door behind him.

He looked about first to make sure that no one had been there since he had left it the night before. Then he opened the cupboard and got out the towel and the gun. The towel, he observed with a quick frown, had marked the floor of the cupboard.

Running in the kitchen, he found wrapping paper and string and made a small neat package of the incriminating evidence. Then he crossed to the telephone and called up Karsnakoff at her hotel.

"Hello?" she said in a sleepy voice when he had persuaded her maid to disturb her. "Is it Mr. Bigelow there?"

"Yes," answered Bigelow. "Are you wide awake?"

"No," answered Karsnakoff. "I am not. Come to tea. Now, I cannot talk at all. I have just had my coffee and looked at the front pages of the newspapers."

He realized she meant him to know that she had seen the report of Vronski's death and understood that their plan had succeeded.

"I'm afraid I can't come to tea," he answered regretfully. "but I was wondering if you could spare me your maid for an hour or two."

"My maid?" she repeated curiously.

"To clear up the mess here after last night's party. The floor especially ought to be seen to without further delay."

"But of course—your lovely polished floor!" she cried quickly. "I will send her at once in a cab with instructions. Will you be there to let her in?"

"Yes," answered Bigelow. "Thank you."

"But it is nothing," Karsnakoff assured him. "Goodbye."

Mariushka Proves Discreet

He looked out of the window, wondering how long it would take the woman to get there. Then it occurred to him that he might be seen, so he left the window and walked the floor impatiently, smoking cigarettes. The phone rang, but he was afraid to answer it as he could think of no good excuse to give for his presence there, and after a trying two minutes, it stopped. Then, eventually, Mariushka knocked at the door.

"Thank Heaven," he cried, closing the door behind her. She was looking about at the disordered studio with a curious expression in her dark eyes. Bigelow waited just how much of the truth Karsnakoff had told her.

"This is the part of the floor that wants cleaning," he said, in-ly. I've no time to waste."

Future Farmers From New London Defeat Oshkosh

O'Brien Stars for Victors Scoring 15 Points; Score Is 20-19

New London—The New London Future Farmer's basketball team defeated the Oshkosh team 20 to 19 in a close game at the Vocational school gymnasium at Oshkosh Wednesday evening. The game was not a league contest.

Martin O'Brien starred with six buckets and three gift shots. One of each in the last minute and a half won the ball game with the aid of a free throw by Schmidt in the closing minutes. The New London squad trailed 16 to 15 at the opening of the last quarter but led previously 6 to 5 and 13 to 8 at the end of the first two quarters. Buckholz dropped three free throws for Oshkosh in the last period.

The part time agricultural group under L. M. Warner, instructor, also defeated their Oshkosh contemporaries, 23 to 20, in an overtime period. On the New London team were Harold Lathrop, H. Black and C. Schincke, forwards; V. Dobbertstein, center; R. Duneay, K. Egan, R. Egan and Herbert Lathrop, guards.

The Future Farmer team is preparing to enter the Fox River Valley basketball tournament at Oshkosh Saturday, March 13. They will play Omro here tonight at the Washington High school gym in a practice game.

Play Presented at School By New London Freshmen

New London—A cast of eight high school freshmen yesterday presented their one act comedy, "Two Pairs of Spectacles" during the regular Thursday assembly period in the high school auditorium. The play was the first in a contest series between the four class groups, as well as faculty members, was unanimous in declaring presentation of the play the best among student groups in the past several years. Miss Dorice Ziemer, senior Theater player, directed rehearsals and production.

Members of the cast were Anton Herres as Mr. Prather; Kathleen Smith as Mrs. Prather; John Calie as Vincent; their son; Marilyn Monroe as Louise; their daughter; Ethel Knappstein as Winifred; engaged to Vincent; Maurice Levine as Grandfather Prather; Jack Seering as Sam Wilkins, a friend of grandfather; and Don Kellogg as Dr. Williams. It was the first real stage experience for most of the cast. Several students took part in the Christmas pageant and playlet last December.

Tryouts for the sophomore play, "Barbara Celebrates," will be held the first of next week according to H. H. Brockhaus, dramatics coach. Lois Black, another Theater player, will direct the group and the play will be presented the latter part of March. A play will be given during each of the two succeeding months by the junior and senior classes.

The play contests are sponsored mainly to unearth new dramatic talent among students and tryouts are open to any student who has not already taken part in one of the regular school productions. A trophy is awarded to the winning class. Judges of the plays are Miss Anne Halsey, Miss Alice Howard and Norman Pronold faculty members.

Assets of Closed Bank are Ordered Taken to Waupaca

First National at Manawa To Lock Doors After March 1

Manawa—In the interests of economy, the comptroller of the currency, Washington, D. C., has ordered removal of the remaining assets of the First National bank of Manawa to the offices of the Old National bank at Waupaca, according to a statement issued Thursday by E. J. VanVonderen, receiver. The doors of the local institution will be closed after March 1.

Mr. VanVonderen is the receiver of both trusts, as well as those of the First National bank of Clintonville and the First National bank of Tigerton. In the future any debtors or depositors will transact any business connected with the local bank at the Waupaca office. Frank Binder, assistant receiver, will be employed at the F. R. Meiklejohn garage and hardware store here. The bank building is for sale.

The First National bank of Manawa first closed on Jan. 27, 1933, and made efforts to continue to do business on a waiver plan at that time. The institution reopened on Feb. 15, 1933, but was closed again by the national moratorium of March 5, 1933. The bank operated under a conservator from April 8, 1933, until it went into the hands of a receiver, L. H. Miller, on March 15, 1934.

E. J. VanVonderen succeeded Mr. Miller on July 1, 1935. Total payments made to depositors thus far amount to $208,406.24, or 75 per cent of the deposits in the bank at the time of the moratorium, which amounted to approximately $300,000. Other payments will be forthcoming.

The First National bank of Manawa was an outgrowth of the Citizens' State bank organized here in 1896 by E. W. Roberts. The institution was granted its national charter on Feb. 16, 1907. Among the local organizers were Arthur Lindsay, Sr., C. D. Dick, Ottomar Esche, J. B. Jensen, Herman Lindow, James O'Donnell and F. F. Bard. These men, together with Leander Getting off to a good Start...

WITH VITAMIN D MILK

Those first steps! How important they are. Bones must be strong enough to stand his weight and carry him through eager heedless play.

Milk, as you know, gives him the necessary bone-building minerals: calcium and phosphorus. And Vitamin D milk fortified with VITEX adds to ordinary pasteurized milk—without changing the taste—the Vitamin D extracted from cod liver oil which helps him retain and utilize these bone- and teeth-forming minerals.

Every quart contains an added 400 U.S.P. units of Vitamin D—the Vitamin D equivalent of 1½ teaspoonfuls of the new minimum standard U.S.P. Cod Liver Oil.

"SUFFERED SIX YEARS WITH CONSTIPATION"

"For six years I suffered with constipation, and I decided to try ALL-BRAN. I have been eating it once a day for about four years, and it has certainly done the work."

—Mrs. Herman Futrell, 905 W. Oak Ave., Jonesboro, Ark.

Tests prove that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is safe and effective for correcting common constipation.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently exercises and cleanses the intestines. It also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. Three times daily in severe cases. You'll find this food far better than habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Observations of a kitchen clock

"Whenever I see a can of Hills Bros. Coffee being opened I say to myself—'Now there's a coffee that must be reliable or it wouldn't have been coming into this kitchen for all these years.' To talk clock-language—I guess you'd say 'Hills Bros. Coffee never runs down in flavor'."

Take It Easy!

The Highways in Outagamie County are in bad shape this Week, due to alternating Temperatures, causing Thawing and Frost. The Highway Plows are doing their Best — but drive Slow and Easy and avoid sudden bad Ice and Water-Pockets. Avoid Broken Springs and Needless Accidents!

And order a nice big ROAST or a dandy FOWL for your Sunday Dinner — your Family would love either, and we would be delighted to furnish them.

Bluejays Will Meet Rockets at Menasha Tonight

Neenah Has Defeated Menasha in 13 of Last 19 Games

Menasha—Rockets and Bluejays will renew their struggle for supremacy on the court when Neenah and Menasha tangle tonight at Butte des Morts gymnasium.

In the last 10 years, the Rockets have had the edge winning 13 out of 19 intercity games while Menasha finished on the long end of the score only six times. Neenah teams have totaled 473 points during the period while Coach N. A. Calder's boys have piled up 395 points.

Menasha has an edge in tonight's battle having defeated the Rockets 18 to 16 at Neenah in their first tussle of the season. Since that time Coach Wideman, Bluejay key man, has been banished from conference play because of the W. I. A. age limit. However, the Caldermen will be on their own floor this evening and should have an edge from that angle.

Prepare For Game Coach Calder has been putting his charges through the paces every night this week in preparation for the winter sporting event of the season in the Twin Cities. No definite lineup has been announced in the Menasha camp but it is expected that Fahrnkug will be at center, Remmel and Schneider or Heiss at forwards and Goehardt and Osiewalski at guards.

Coach Ole Jorgensen's cagers are on edge for tonight's contest and are out to even the score and revenge their early season defeat at the hands of the Menashas. Hesseman will get the starting call at center with Don Schmidt and Dan Schmidt at wing positions. Rabideau and Schultz will hold down the guard spots.

Expect Crowd A record crowd is expected to attend the battle of the year. Tickets have been on sale at the Menasha postoffice and the advance sale indicates that very few seats will be left, for late comers. The first game will start at 7 o'clock and the varsity battle will begin at 8:15.

Records of the two teams since 1927 when the conference was formed is as follows:

	N.	M.
1927-28	31	17
1928-29	38	7
1929-30	31	11
1930-31	19	14
1931-32	17	9
1932-33	34	10
1933-34	22	10

Neenah Matmen Meet Milwaukee

Local Squad Seeking Revenge From Washington High Squad

Neenah—Neenah High school wrestlers will tangle with the strong Washington high school team, Mt. Waikua, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The southern squad boasts the only win over Neenah during three years of competition and the Neenah team is determined to avenge that one defeat.

Thus far Neenah has emerged victorious in its matches with East Green Bay, Sturgeon Bay and Kaukauna this season. A return match is scheduled with East Green Bay here March 3 and Kaukauna will invade the local gymnasium March 10.

Following are the Neenah lads who will tangle with the invaders: 89-pound class, Howard Craddock; 105-pound class, Don McGraw; 115-pound class, Ellis Rabideau; 135-pound class, Block or Dieckhoff; 145-pound class, Emery Christensen; 155-pound class, Koerwitz or Johnson; 155-pound class, Volk; 165-pound class, Orville Schultz; 175-pound class, Alvin Matfield; 185-pound class, Runge or Ruicci. F. J. Huaser, Neenah, will be the referee.

Friday Is Last Day to Pay Menasha Town Taxes

Menasha—After today, payment of real estate taxes for the town of Menasha will involve a 2 per cent penalty, according to Amos Page, town treasurer.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 310 N. Commercial street and the telephone numbers are 200 and 1992. News items, copy or orders for advertising and subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. These numbers also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Observe Birthday Of Washington at Relief Corps Party

Menasha—Miniature cherry trees and hatched candy cherries and other Washington Birthday anniversary decorations were used on the luncheon tables at the Menasha Women's Relief corp meeting yesterday afternoon at S. A. Cook armory. The luncheon followed a special program which was opened by Mrs. Carrie Strong who gave a reading "Freeing Our Country." The third grade students under the direction of Celia Boyce, Butte des Morts school, presented a dance. "Pop Goes the Weasel" after which another group from the same grade danced the minuet. Blanche Tyrrell, Joyce Bailler and Jeanne Crast-Nicolet school students, sang a song and Miss Miller's students from Nicolet school presented a three-act play, "The Life of Washington." A Barn Dance show was presented by Miss Boyce's students after which Miss Burt's played a piano selection, "Napoleon's Lost Charge" in honor of Comrade Sheerin and Mrs. Sheerin who were guests of the corp. Ethel Harold sang, "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean" and "Star Spangled Banner" with a little boy and girl, costumed as Washington and Martha stood at attention.

65 Teams Already Entered in Lions State Pin Tourney

Deadline for Entries Is March 1. Secretary Announces

Menasha—With the entry deadline for the Wisconsin State Lions Bowling tournament set at March 1, a total of 65 teams have already sent entry blanks, according to Claude Mayer, secretary of the Menasha Lions club, sponsors of the tournament.

Opening games will be rolled on Mar. 13 and the date for entry may be extended if other teams in the state wish to enter Mayer said today. The total number of teams entered in the meet exceeds the number entered in any other state Lions tourney by 10.

Two additional team entries have been received from Manawa and two from Sheboygan. The cities of Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Appleton, Oshkosh, Kaukauna and Green Bay have not as yet entered teams.

The secretary expressed his appreciation this morning for the operation of the Lions club receiving from the Menasha Rotary, Neenah Kiwanis and city officials of both Neenah and Menasha. The Kiwanis have entered two booster teams as have the Menasha Rotary. City officials and booster teams from local service clubs will open the tournament.

Neenah Society

Neenah—Plans for club meeting programs for the next months were discussed at the meeting of the Who's New club at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday. Col. Frank Schneller was guest speaker on the program yesterday, presenting an illustrated talk on his recent trip to Europe. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Mortenson. Mrs. Don Severson, Mrs. H. C. Brien and Mrs. Franklin Oels.

Lady Angles held a short business meeting Thursday evening after which cards were played, honors in schafkopf going to Mrs. Titus Coates and Mrs. Henry Torsrud and in bridge to Mrs. Harry Kamp and Mrs. Alva Clark. Neenah—Returning their hold on first place in the Twin City Industrial league, Kimberly-Clark cagers downed the Bergstrom quintet, 39-16, before a capacity crowd at Roosevelt school gymnasium last evening and Neenah Papers won its first game by swamping Falcons, 50-20.

Howard Schmidt led the K-C five with five buckets and four free throws for a total of 4 points while Whitpan hit the run for nine points on four baskets and a free throw. Barnes topped the losers with three baskets and two free throws for eight points. The score was tied, 4-4, at the end of the first playing period but K-C was in the lead, 16-7, 27-11 and 39-16, at the end of the remaining quarters.

Winning their first game in nine starts, the Neenah Paper hoopers led, 10-3, 23-8, 35-14, 50-20, as they walloped Falcons. The Menasha team just couldn't get going and the Papers were admitting, playing over their heads. Kolgen scored 18 points on eight baskets and two free throw opportunities while W. Handier hit the basket for six buckets and two free throws.

Art Exhibit Is Open To Public at Library

Neenah—Neenah residents have been invited to view an art exhibit in the basement of the Neenah Public library sponsored by the Neenah Museum society. Included in the exhibit are 10 color scenes done by Carl Christensen, principal of the Neenah Vocational school, depicting boats and boat landings.

Miss Emily Groom, Milwaukee, instructor at the Layton Art school, has submitted six charcoal portraits, 11 floral arrangements in color and three pastoral scenes. The pictures will be on display until March 9.

Twelve New Books are Added to Juvenile List

Neenah—Twelve new books have been placed on the shelves of the juvenile department at the Neenah Public library, according to Miss May Hart, librarian. The new books:

"Lis Sails the Atlantic," Anderson; "Story Pictures of Farm Foods," Beatty; "Marianne and Michael," Criss; "Marty Lu," Donahoe; "Wings of Flame," Egan; "On the Farm," Fisher; "On the Golden Trail," Hawthorne; "Little Girl with Seven Names," Hunt; "Here Comes the Postman," Park; "Shanghai Passage," Pease; "Upstairs Downstairs," Sherman; "The Heart of a Dog," Terhune.

Order Continuance In Divorce Trial

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—Hearing was continued until Monday by County Judge Dan E. McDonald in the case of Frank M. Arbuckle, Neenah watchman, who is seeking a divorce from Henrietta M. Arbuckle on grounds of desertion. In his complaint filed with the court, Arbuckle states he was married at St. Paul in 1912.

In a counter claim, he is charged with cruel and inhuman treatment, which he denies.

SCHEDULE 3 MEETINGS

Neenah—The Danish Brotherhood hall will be the scene of three groups meetings next week. The Painters union will meet at 7:30 Monday evening, Neenah Townsend club members will meet Tuesday evening and the Carpenters union will meet Wednesday evening.

EXTEND OFFICE HOURS

Neenah—Because Saturday is the final day for payment of taxes on real estate and personal property, the office of the city treasurer, Walter H. Loehning, will be open from 8 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 12:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A penalty is levied for taxes which become delinquent after March 1.

Born in Menasha on July 30, 1858, she has lived here all her life. She was a member of St. Ann's society of St. Mary church.

Survivors are two sons, E. L. Sensenbrenner and William J. Sensenbrenner, Menasha; two daughters, Mrs. Eda Crawford Menasha; and Mrs. G. E. Peerenboom Tacoma, Wash.; 12 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Monday morning at the Lutheran church home and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary church with the Rev. J. Hummel in charge. Burial will be in St. Margaret cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home from 7 o'clock Saturday evening until the time of the funeral.

MRS. ESTELLA GORES—Menasha—Mrs. Estella Gores, 51, 23 E. Pollett street Fond du Lac, former Menasha woman, died Wednesday at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, following a 4-week illness.

Born in Menasha on Feb. 15, 1886, she was married in 1906 to William J. Gores. She was Miss Estella Resch before her marriage.

Survivors are three daughters: Estella, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Robert Schrumpt, Milwaukee; and Mrs. Robert King, Manitowish; three sons: William, Fond du Lac; Willard, Waukesha; two brothers, Albert Resch, St. Paul; James Resch, Montgomery, Minn.; and two sisters, Mrs. William Stopper, Sheboygan; and Mrs. James Gaffney, Fond du Lac.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Saturday morning at the residence and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary church, Fond du Lac. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Kiwanis Club Enters Booster Teams in Meel

Neenah—The Neenah Kiwanis club will enter two booster teams in the Wisconsin Lions club tournament which opens at Menasha March 15 and will continue until April 15. The teams will roll the opening night with other Twin City service clubs.

Team No. 1: A. C. Haseloff, Elmer Schultheis, Arthur Weston, William Daniels, Otto Steffenhagen.

Team No. 2: A. Schmutz Norton G. Williams, Iveyus Andersen, Gaylord Loehning, Otto Laeber.

BRING BILLS ALONG—Menasha—Carl Hendrickson, city treasurer, requested today that all taxpayers bring in their tax bills when paying taxes to avoid the necessity of paging through books at the treasurer's office. Taxes may be paid without penalty up to Mar. 1. Property owners may pay the first 20 per cent. any part of the tax or the entire bill on that day, the treasurer said.

MENASHA PEP SESSION

Menasha—A pep session for Menasha High school students was conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the Brin theater. Coach N. A. Calder addressed the group and urged everyone to attend tonight's battle between the Bluejays and Neenah High school cagers. Members of the squad also gave short talks.

ISSUE WARNING

Neenah—As the result of an elderly lady being knocked down by a bicycle rider on E. Wisconsin avenue yesterday afternoon, Chief of Police C. H. Wais issued a warning today against all cyclists riding on sidewalks. A city ordinance prohibits the practice and offenders will be prosecuted.

HOLD CONFERENCE

Neenah—A H. Rose, field representative of the Wisconsin State Employment service, conferred with local officials here yesterday.

Mr. Rose, Madison, appeared at a meeting of second district managers and WPA officials at Green Bay today.

ATTENDS MEET

Neenah—Harry D. Gates, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment service office serving Neenah and Menasha, attended a meeting of Second district managers and WPA officials at WPA headquarters in Green Bay today. The local office is established at 5104 N. Commercial street.

Twin City Bar Group Not to Vote on Court

Neenah—Declaring the issue concerning the legislation proposed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to revise the United States Supreme court was not clear cut, members of the Twin City Bar association decided not to take a vote when they met at the home of Gaylord Loehning, 1306 E. Forest avenue, last evening.

A straw vote was planned at the request of the American Bar association, Charles Vette, Neenah attorney, led a discussion on the modernized minimum fee schedule but no action was taken on the proposal.

Ladies Aid Society Meeting at Church

Clintonville—Over thirty members and guests were present at the Methodist Ladies Aid society meeting Thursday afternoon at the church parlors. Hostesses for the occasion were the losers in a recent contest. Following the business session, a program was presented. The numbers included a reading by Mrs. Ralph Parfitt, a song by Mrs. Otto Olen and Mrs. S. J. Churchill; and miscellaneous readings by members. Corsage bouquets were presented to Miss Meda Steinf for being the oldest unmarried person at the meeting, to Mrs. Cora Fisher for being the oldest grandmother and to Mrs. Fred Frisch for being the youngest grandmother present.

Mrs. Otto Olen captain of the losing team, was presented with a plant by officers of the winning group. The meeting closed with the serving of a supper by the committee.

A two-act play, "The Sinks of the Ladies Aid" will be presented by members of the society at the next regular meeting, which will be on Friday afternoon, March 12, at the church parlors.

Members of the Birthday club met at the home of Mrs. James Sorenson Tuesday afternoon to celebrate the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Sorenson, Mrs. Frank Gause, Mrs. Reuben Lendved and Mrs. E. A. Miller. Bridge was played with honors awarded to Mrs. H. V. Larson, Miss Viola Bohling, Mrs. Richard Milbauer and Mrs. J. R. Shannon.

The Clintonville Woman's club will meet Monday afternoon, March 1, at the home of Mrs. Max Stieg on N. Main street.

The Junior Woman's club will hold its regular meeting at 7:45 Monday evening at the city hall.

The Leisure Hour club was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Henry Zuhse at her home on Eighteenth street. Three tables of bridge were followed by a luncheon. High honors at each table went to Mrs. Frank McIntyre, Mrs. Charles Wendler and Mrs. Amos Schultz. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Edwin Hangartner.

The Busy Twelve met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. August Timm on Bennett street. The time was spent informally, after which a supper was served. The occasion was the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Timm, and the club members presented them with a gift.

Miss Veryl Eberhardt was hostess to her club at a dessert-luncheon Wednesday evening. Two tables of bridge followed with prizes awarded to Mrs. Ruth Schultz and Miss Gladys Spearbraker.

The Thrift club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Beckman at her home on E. Second street. Games and contests provided amusement and prizes were won by Mrs. Henry Zuhse, Mrs. V. C. Mack and Mrs. Martha Witzke.

Congregational Missionary Society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl Smith. The lesson topic on the American Negro was presented by Mrs. Herbert Bovee. Other missionary subjects were given by Mrs. Claudia Whaley and Mrs. W. H. Schmidt. The society is making plans for a handkerchief sale to be held later in the spring.

Bernard Knapp, proprietor of the Southside barber shop in this city, spent several days of this week at the New London Community hospital where he was taken for treatment of a fractured jaw bone. He suffered the injury in a fall on the ice Monday evening while he with Mrs. Knapp and their children were enjoying a skating party on a small ice-pond adjoining their home. The injury was not considered serious for more than a day after the fall.

John Bohman returned home Wednesday from the Wausau Memorial hospital, where he has been confined since last September. Mr. Bohman is receiving treatment for a badly fractured arm, which he received in an accident last June.

Caldies Retain Lead in Ladies' League Bowling

Mrs. M. Lucassen, Miss Anna Wolf Get Highest Scores

LADIES' LEAGUE
	W.	L. Pct.
Caldie Beauty Shop	36	21 .650
Shady Lawn Dairy	36	22 .633
Leone Beauty Shop	36	27 .550
Weyenberg's Meat	30	27 .550
Gertz Tavern	30	30 .500
Fargo's Furniture	28	32 .467
Buhl, Profits Women	22	36 .367
Quality Food Market	17	43 .283

Kaukauna — Mrs. M. Lucassen continued her fast bowling pace with a high 488 series on games of 164, 182 and 142 as her team, Caldie Beauty Shop, won two and lost one in their match with the Leone Beauty Shop in the Ladies' league at Schell alleys last night. Her teammate, Gertrude Grebe, tipped the maples for a 439 on scores of 141, 115 and 183. Charlotte Mayer of the losers hit 168, 139 and 124 to chalk up a 429.

High game in last night's bowling went to Anna Wolf who turned in a 187 on her second game as her team, Shady Lawn Dairy, swept three against the Business and Professional Women. With her first game at 157 and her third at 133, Miss Wolf's series of 477 was tied for second best of the evening. Alma Renn turned in the best performance for the B & P W. team with a 397. Adela Thelen on the Shady Lawn five scattered the pins for a 447 series with games of 137, 130 and 180.

Tied with Miss Wolf with a 477 series was Mrs. Jack Hilgenberg who bowled games of 157, 145, and 175 to help her Gertz Tavern team win two out of three from Fargo's Furniture. Catherine Van Groll's 414 stood on scores of 160, 121 and 133 stood out in the Fargo column. As Weyenberg's Meat took three games from the Quality Food Market five, E. Dietzler's 427 series on scores of 145, 148 and 134 was a great help to the winners. Mrs. Charles Schell chalked up a 423 for the Quality team with games of 147, 126 and 149.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Group No. 1 of the Immanuel, Evangelical and Reformed church will give a bake sale starting at 10:30 Saturday morning in the Balge-Conrad grocery store. Mrs. Herman Freiler and Mrs. Gus Ristau are in charge.

About 150 people attended the birthday party sponsored by the Social Union of the Brokaw Memorial Methodist church last night at the Epworth home. Following the musical and dramatic program, those present sat down to lunch at 12 tables, each of which was decorated to represent a month.

The Woman's Benefit association will meet in the club rooms on Second street tonight. Cards will be played and refreshments served. The committee for the meeting is made up of Mrs. Julia Ferguson, Mrs. Elsie Stedler and Mrs. Ferna Noonan.

Odile chapter 184, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a regular meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Masonic hall. A social hour will follow the business session.

APPEARS IN SHOW

Kaukauna—Miss Harriet Cleland daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Cleland, John street, will appear in the "Mskits", an annual amateur show at the University of Wisconsin which will be held next Wednesday night, March 5, in the Great hall of the Memorial building. She was chosen to represent the Cochran house.

ASSIGN TESTS

Kaukauna—Boy Scouts of troop 26 were assigned different tests at their meeting last week which they must pass in demonstrations next week. Patrol leaders were asked by Scoutmaster Herb Nieser to hold meetings of their groups. A knot-tying exhibition was given by Buckley lives.

MAN IS FINED $3

Kaukauna—Gayhart Spielbauer, Lawe street, was fined $3 and costs by Justice Abe Goldin yesterday for disorderly conduct. Arrested Tuesday night on the south side by police, Spielbauer first pleaded innocent, but was found guilty in yesterday's trial.

'We Can Do It Again' Is Attitude of Kaws as They Face Shawano Cagers

Kaukauna—"We did it once and we can do it again" is what members of the Kaukauna high school basketball team are saying as they organize for their invasion of Shawano tonight.

The Kaws did it once, about a month ago, when they beat the Indians 28-20, staying a few points ahead most of the game, spurring in the last quarter, and then controlling the ball in the closing minutes.

The Kaws reached their peak in that game, for since then they have dropped games to St. Johns, Neenah, Menasha, and just managed to crawl past Clintonville in the late moments of their two tilts with the TWD's.

Certain that their shooting slump is over, Coach Little's cagers are ready to find the range again tonight, just as they did against Shawano at their first meeting. Led by Kothne, high scoring forward, and Boer, capable center, the Kaws have a lot of scoring power that has been dormant the past few weeks.

If the Kaws win tonight, they will beat the league-leading team. The Indians are at the top of conference standings with eight wins and two losses. Outstanding in their attack are two men, Reed, husky, speedy guard and Robbins, who whacks up his duties between the other guards and the center position.

Kaukauna will travel to Shawano tonight by bus. The following men are making the trip: "A" squad—Kothne, Boer, Hatchell, Hanby, Peterson, Vanechoven, Lambie, Parnan, and Stanelle; "B" squad—McCormick, McCarty, Pendergast, Kobussen, Meitner, Grogan.

13 Acts in Variety Show To be Given This Weekend

Kaukauna—Thirteen acts of songs, dances, and demonstrations will be paraded before audiences at the opening performance of the "Varieties of 1937" at 8:15 tomorrow evening in the Civic auditorium. Sponsored by the Pulp and Paper-makers Union No. 20 and 147, the show also will be presented twice Sunday at 2:15 in the afternoon and at 8:15 in the evening.

The home talent production has been directed by Miss Lucille Austin, public school music instructor, who will appear in one of the features, a lighter than light opera satirizing the classics. She will take the role of the princess, a soprano. Other members of the cast of the 10-minute musical skit are as follows: fairy, Ana Ceil Kilgas, a contralto; prince, Laverne Rabideau, a tenor; rival, Otto Fiedler, a bass. This will be the seventh act on the program.

The high school boys' glee club of 20 voices under Miss Austin's direction will appear on the program and sing four numbers.

Tumbling acts by boys' physical education classes under the instruction of Clifford Kemp provide a portion of the entertainment. The boys who will participate are as follows: R. Verbeten, S. Lutzow, E. Busse, R. Hoehne, J. LeBorde, M. Courtney, H. Weber, R. Hooihlan, J. Verbeten and C. Jaeger.

The other acts on the "Varieties of 1937" are as follows: W. T. A. Q. Rambling Trio; Vesper Chamberlain School of Dancing; Sons of the American Legion; Van Zealand School of Music; Hanegraaf Sisters of Little Chute; Kaukauna Boy Scouts; Kaukauna High school orchestra; Flanagan Sisters; Sherburne Lorraine Powers; instructional drill by members of Company "D".

Rasmussen Funeral Conducted at Waupaca

Waupaca—Funeral services for Hans Rasmussen 76 were conducted at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Bammel Funeral chapel by the Rev. I. M. Anderson. Burial was in Lakeside cemetery.

Mr. Rasmussen, who died Feb. 21, after a long illness, was born May 21, 1860, in Lolland Denmark, the son of Margaret and Rasmus Jensen. Coming to America in 1880 he settled in Wisconsin.

He was married Sept. 2, 1888, to Ann Johnson, and to this union were born ten children, six of whom survive. Mrs. Oliver Anderson, Waupaca, Mrs. Frank Jensen, Lodi, Calif.; Emil, Miles City, Mont.; Wilfred and Steffen, at home. His widow, a brother and a sister also survive.

PLAN STORY HOUR

Kaukauna—Story hours for children of the first six grades in the public schools will be held at 9:30 Saturday morning in the Kaukauna Public library. Miss Bernice Happer, librarian, will relate the last of the series on "Barbara and Peter at the Ranch" and her second story will be "East of the Sun and West of the Moon".

A preliminary opening at 6:30. A couple weeks ago these two teams met and couldn't make up their minds about appointing a winner. After playing three overtime periods, the last one a free-throw demonstration, and with the score still at 20-all, the teams were chased off the floor by impatient industrial league cagers who wanted to get home before midnight.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Merres barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. Don Anderson is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.
